Top defense contractors to visit Gulf Coast

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Some of the nation's top defense contractors are scheduled to visit the Mississippi Gulf Coast later this month.

"We have received acceptances from chief executives or top corporation officers from at least 25 defense contractors," Alan R. Barton, president of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Economic Development Council reported Friday.

Barton said the project was proposed by Senator John Stennis who added his personal invitation to defense contractors asked to visit the coast.

"This will be an all-working trip, limited to 24 hours to show these contractors what we on the Mississippi Gulf Coast have to offer," he said.

The group will tour by helicopter. Highlighting the tour will be visits at Ingalls Shipbuilding, the Chevron refinery, National Space Technology Laboratories, Borg Warner and Dupont.

"To the best of our knowledge, none of these contractors are actively looking for a site at this time but the object of this tour is to put the Mississippi Gulf Coast on their maps," Barton added.

Barton explained that a New York consulting firm had told the council, the only problem with the Mississippi Gulf Coast is that no one knows about it.

"What we are hoping is that in the future when these contractors who tour the area have the occasion to build a new facility or expand an existing plant they will think about the Mississippi Gulf Coast," he said.

Barton also said nothing else in the world will do as much good as for these contractors to be able to talk to heads of large corporations already working here.

"They will be able to hear first hand from persons who are imports to the area, about how great things are here," he said.

Congressman Trent Lott has also been very supportive of the project, Barton said.

"We hope people on the Coast will clean up, sweep up and do whatever possible to help us give as good as impression as we can," he added.

The Mississippi Gulf Coast Economic Council is a group of private individuals who joined together approximately one year ago to work to promote the area.

"The central idea of the council is that the Mississippi Gulf Coast is one saleable entity and that is what we are promoting," said Charles Benvenuti of Bay St. Louis, a member of the council's steering committee.

Barton said the council is not competing with any county or city development groups but is working with these.

"We have the heads of all three county groups as members of this organization," he added.

President of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission Ronald J. Artigues is a director on the council.

The council steering committee includes Benvenuti; Leo W. Seal, president of Hancock Bank; Alan R. Barton, president of Mississippi Power Company; Jerry St. Pe, president of Ingalls Shipbuilding; John Fahnstock Jr., president of Alpha Optical Systems; Jolly McCarty, vice-president of Merchants and Marine Bank; Roland Weeks Jr., president of Gulf Publishing Company; Chevis Sweetman, president of Peoples Bank of Biloxi; and Doug Fontaine, president of LaFont Inn.

Dave McDonald of Hancock County is also a director for the council.

AMAZING GRACE—Nationally known jazz pianist Ronnie Kole explains how he was honored playing the hymn Amazing Grace at the outdoor Mass of Pope John Paul II during his recent visit to New Orleans. Kole was the guest speaker at NSTL's Combined Agency Campaign Rally on Thursday. The goal for the 1987 campaign at NSTL for the federal and industrial contributions is $131,061. The CAC campaign funds are designated for Hancock, Harrison and Pearl River counties in addition to St. Tammany Parish. Kole talked about his involvement in the United Way and other community projects. Representing the Hancock United Way at the CAC Rally were Chuck Benvenuti, president; Ellis Cuevas, vice-president; and Lonnie Clayborn 1987 campaign chairman. The goal for the Hancock County United Way is $65,000. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Two Hancock County agencies seeking same site near Stennis

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission is invited to attend a Hancock County School Board recess meeting Tuesday.

School Board President Frank Miller issued the invitation last week at the school board's regular meeting to discuss a proposed site for the new junior-senior high school which the commission is eyeing for expansion of the Stennis International Airport and Industrial Park.

Miller said if this time is not convenient for the commission he would welcome a meeting with the commissioners at their convenience.

The commission had requested a meeting with the Board of Supervisors and the school board Monday afternoon to discuss the commission's opposition to the location of the new school adjacent industrial park.

However only two school board members attended.

At this meeting, Port and Harbor Director Buz Olsen said the commission wanted to express a position of concern for the future of Hancock County and the future of the young adults, not to oppose improved school facilities.

"This commission is certainly not taking a position against the school system providing a quality education and facilities. It is a question of whether the location is suitable enough to provide adequate facilities without a question of safety," he stated.

Olsen said the commission also feels an obligation to protect a $10 million investment in the industrial park and location of the school would block expansion potential of the park.

"We don't have a choice about moving, the school board does," said Commission President Ronald Artigues.

"We either expand the industrial park in this direction or we don't expand," he continued.

According to Artigues, existing utility services in the industrial park have been designed to gravity feed to the site in question.

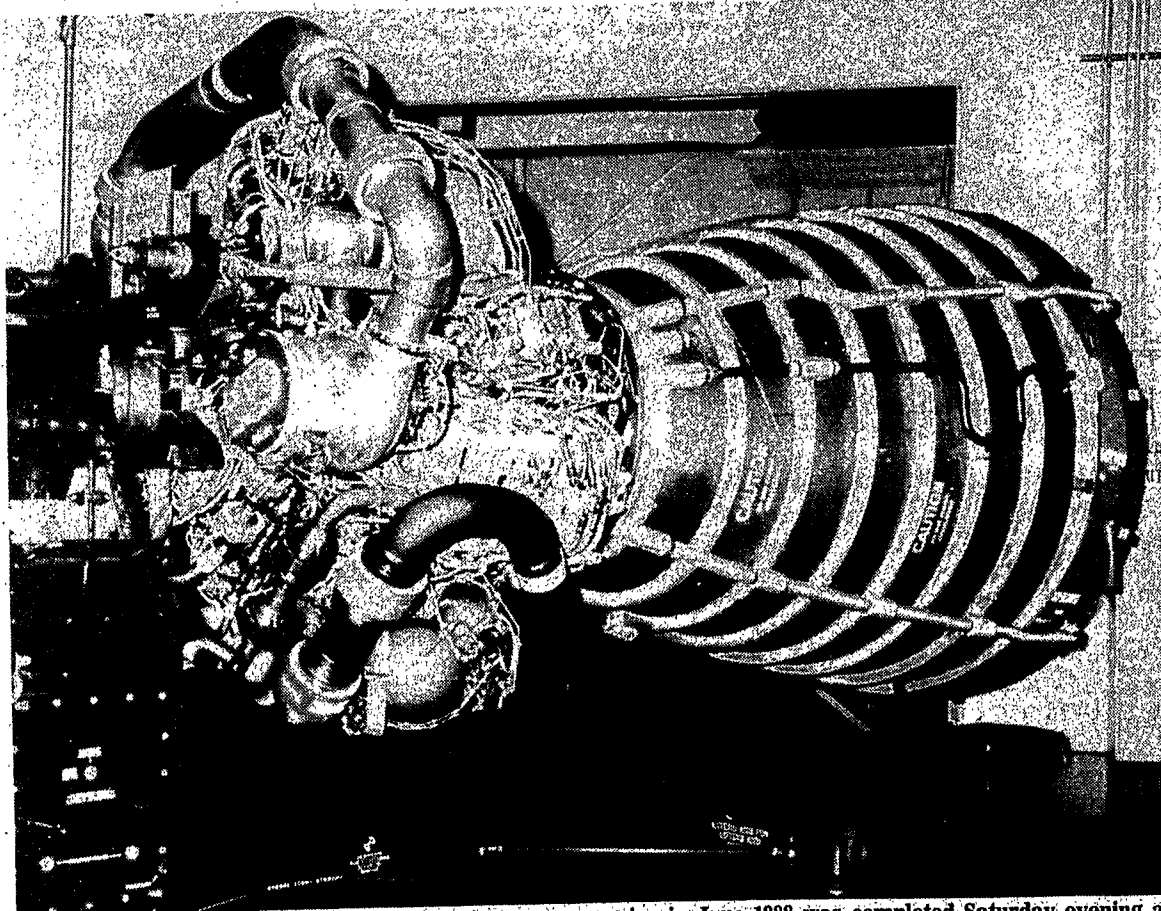

"We just can't pick up all the utilities installed and our 3,500 foot runway and move," he said.

School Board Member Wain King, told the group he could not speak for the board, but suggested that if the commission wanted to prevent the school from being built on this site, efforts be directed to the State Board of Education, which must approve the site.

King along with Board Member Billie Faye Lyons opposed the location of the school at the Stennis site.

They were out-voted 2-2 by Board Members Frank Miller, Lennette Necaise and Barbara Dedeaux.

Terry White, owner of the 40-acre site, also attended the meeting.

Final test firing of space shuttle engine completed Saturday at NSTL

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Test firing of the first of three main engines scheduled for use on the next Space Shuttle mission was completed Saturday evening at National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County.

This was test, the third test of engine number 2027, was a 520-second nominal mission duration test.

Earlier test firing included a 1.5 second ignition test on Aug. 11 and a 250-second calibration firing on Sept. 16.

Engine 2027 is a new engine which has never flown on a shuttle, according to Boyce Mix, resident manager of the Marshall Space Flight Center Shuttle Project Office.

The test was conducted by the shuttle main engine contractor, Rocketdyne Division of Rockwell International. NSTL engineers and technicians provided technical support.

Identical tests will be conducted at NSTL on the remaining two engines scheduled for the June 1988 flight of the Space Shuttle Discovery as well as a spare engine before being sent to the Kennedy Space Center.

"Engines for the STS-26 incorporate a number of improvements identified through an extensive and on-going test program. Areas of improvement include the electronic engine controller, valve actuators, temperature sensors, main combustion chamber and the turbopumps," said Mack Herring, public affairs officer for National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Another step has been taken toward the beginning of an erosion control project for McLeod Water Park in Kiln.

The acting president of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, Vice-President Sam Perniciaro, has signed a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers draft of a permit that must be obtained before the work can be started.

The draft permit has been returned to the Corps for final approval.

The document explains the project as being designed to alleviate a long-standing problem with erosion of the banks of the Jourdan River, which runs through the county-owned park.

The project calls for stabilization of 1,445 linear feet of the river bank. The method to be used calls for placement of a two-foot layer of riprap over a layer of geotextile material designed to stabilize the soil.

In addition, the slope of the bank will be changed to a uniform horizontal-to-vertical ratio less steep than the existing natural slope.

The $170,000 project is a cooperative effort of the county, U.S.D.A. Soil Conservation Service and Pearl River Basin Development District.

The county must put up 20 percent of the cost and Pearl River Basin Development District is supplying $34,000.

Several soil conservation service emergency watershed program projects have been already been done or are in progress in Hancock County, with the most recently completed one at Stennis Airport, Soil Conservation Service secretary Norma Rich stated.

Others have been done or are in progress on Old Joe Moran Road, Bayou LaTerre and Black Snake Creek.

Some have used procedures similar to those planned for the park project.

"This project will be a tremendous help for people of Hancock County, because not only local people get the benefit," Rich said. "Visitors will also get to see the enhancement of McLeod Park."

The Bay St. Louis Police Department has arrested a Kendall County, Texas, parole violator.

According to Detective Chuck James, Louis M. Blackburn, 405 Lover's Lane, Pass Christian, was arrested Wednesday at his place of employment in Bay St. Louis.

Blackburn had been paroled on an aggravated assault charge.

James said he has indicated that he will not fight extradition and a transfer back to Texas has been scheduled for Tuesday.

Federal agencies join in study of nine parish hurricane evacuation plan

A southeast Louisiana hurricane preparedness study is being conducted by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, New Orleans District, in cooperation with the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and the National Weather Service for the development of pertinent information to be used by local and state agencies in the preparation and implementation of evacuation plans for a nine-parish area in Louisiana.

Attending a recent meeting to initiate coordination of the study were Federal, state and local representatives.

Emergency operation planning people from the study area participated along with Congresswoman Lindy Boggs, Tom Creaghan, Assistant Secretary of the Louisiana Office of Emergency Preparedness, Col. L. Kent Brown, New Orleans District Engineer, and Richard Stuart, chief, Flood Plain Management Services Branch of the Lower Mississippi Valley Division of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The study is being conducted under the authority of the Disaster Relief Act of 1974. In response to this authority, FEMA developed and funded a hurricane preparedness program providing technical and financial assistance to high-risk, highly populated areas.

The study area, with a population of approximately 1.5 million, includes the nine parishes of Jefferson, Lafourche, Orleans, Plaquemines, St. Bernard, St. Charles, St. James, St. John the Baptist, and St. Tammany.

The study area is low with natural elevations ranging from about 10 feet below sea level in leveed areas to about 20 feet above sea level.

Developed areas enjoy varying degrees of hurricane protection;

however, even the best protected areas are subject to inundation from the most severe hurricane.

The study will produce quantitative data on hurricane hazards (wind and surge) and determine populations-at-risk in relation to the hurricane's severity.

Special attention will be given to those in medical and institutional facilities, mobile homes and substandard housing.

A transportation analysis will determine evacuation clearance times. This clearance time (the time from when an evacuation order is given until the last vehicle reaches safety) is one of the major components of the evacuation order.

An inventory will be taken of existing shelters, their vulnerability to hurricane surges and their capacities. The study will project shelter needs based on the hazards and transportation analysis.

Analysis of the structural stability of shelters to withstand hurricane force winds will be delegated to local governments.

Information will be provided, as needed, to state and local agencies on the population-at-risk, on shelters, and on the time frames available in which to conduct safe evacuation.

Public information materials will be prepared at the request of, and in coordination with, state and local officials.

This hurricane preparedness study is scheduled for completion by Sept. 1990. The overall study cost is estimated at $700,000 and is being funded by both FEMA and the Corps of Engineers. The National Weather Service is also providing technical assistance funded through its own sources.

Natchez Trace construction money approved

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Senator John Stennis said Friday that $13.2 million for continued construction on the Natchez Trace Parkway between Nashville and Natchez has been approved by a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

"This is another important link in completion of this project which cannot really reach its full potential as a national historic and scenic parkway until it is finished," Stennis said.

The Mississippi Senator said about 35 miles remain to be completed on the 444-mile parkway, including about 15 miles around Jackson and 9 miles into Natchez.

WARMING UP—The Navy Showband South of New Orleans practices for the concert conducted Wednesday in the Bay St. Louis City Park. The event drew a crowd estimated at more than 400 area residents and was sponsored by the Downtown Merchants Association.

Seafood demand increases in many Mississippi recipes

The demand for fish and seafood is growing as consumers continue the trend toward health and natural foods. Predictions are that there will be plenty of fish—largely because of aquaculture.

Mississippi's catfish farmers and Norway's salmon farmers are working to increase production. Turbot and bass farming in Spain and Morocco is looking good and right from our own Gulf Coast—mullet (Biloxi Bacon), Spanish mackerel, croaker, flounder and other delicacies.

Plenty of fish still swim in the sea, too. Many of the species coming on the market will be new, and these will often be the best buys. So, keep an open mind when you shop the seafood counter. There are lots of interesting catches to be netted.

One of the newest fish to hit local markets comes from New Zealand. Many people have been raving about orange roughy for quite some time. It gets its name from its tough orange outside. It is found close to shore and has to be tough to withstand being beaten against rocks. In seafood markets it comes fresh frozen for a really fresh product.

Orange roughy is lower in cholesterol and fat than any other fish. It has a delicate flavor and absorbs other flavors well. The flesh is firm and holds its shape well. When cooked the flesh flakes easily and has no fishy smell. It can be used in almost any recipe calling for fish. It is great microwaved, baked, broiled, steamed, stir-fried—almost any way you would like.

Another popular fish is halibut. It has been around since ancient times and comes primarily from the North Pacific.

It is considered the king of the flatfish with some of the qualities of flounder, but not as pretty, and less delicate because of its size.

It has lean white, tender flesh with a mild flavor that works well with sauces. Halibut is usually sold as steaks or fillets either fresh or frozen.

One pound will make two or three servings. Halibut is an excellent source of high-quality protein and minerals while being low in sodium, fat and calories. It also works well in most any recipe calling for fish fillets or steaks.

Down through the ages the elusive salmon has been held in the highest esteem by the great nations of the world. There are five species of salmon that are sold. They are chinook or king, sockeye, pink, coho or silver, and chum.

While we have had access to canned salmon for years, it has been only in recent years that fresh and frozen salmon has gained popularity. Fresh or frozen salmon is delicious when baked, broiled, poached, sauteed or grilled.

Whole salmon is sold fresh or frozen for baking or barbecuing. Salmon steaks are available as are a wide variety of specialty products.

Fresh salmon is becoming quite popular as more people get acquainted with the possibilities it offers for great eating.

Redfish, which is actually a channel bass has enjoyed so much popularity that it has become an endangered species. It is one of the most delicious all-purpose fish.

It adapts well to most any seafood recipe as well as the blackened version that still receives rave reviews.

When choosing any fresh dressed fish look for a firm, elastic flesh and a mild, fresh odor. There should be no dried appearance and no traces of browning around edges of the cut surface.

Ask the person at the seafood counter for help. They often will prepare it in the form you need for the recipe. They can usually advise you on the freshness, texture and flavor, and how much to buy.

As a general rule allow about one-half pound per person when purchasing dressed fish. For steaks or fillets, allow about one-third pound per person or two pounds for six people.

For all fish, keep it very cold, use it within one or two days or freeze it for several months. Keep cooked fish refrigerated in a covered container no longer than two to three days. Cooked fish will keep up to three months in the freezer.

Most markets also offer recipes and general cooking instructions—just ask.

Bay police investigating Tuesday stabbing incident

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis Police Department is continuing an investigation of a Tuesday night stabbing incident that injured a Waveland man.

J.B. Montgomery of 507 Morris St., Waveland, was taken to Hancock Medical Center by Mobile Medic Ambulance Service after being stabbed three times in the back at about 11 p.m., Bay Police Detective Chuck James said.

One of the stab wounds, all of which were located between the shoulder blades, punctured the upper lobe of the left lung and caused it to collapse, James reported.

A hospital spokesman said Montgomery was in stable condition Friday afternoon but was still in the intensive care unit.

The stabbing incident occurred at 633 Kellar Street, Bay St. Louis, apparently during a family argument, the detective added.

James said a meat cleaver had been recovered at the scene but that the stab wounds were definitely made by knife.

He said the knife had not been recovered.

Quotables by CUEVAS

'Let's do it again,' appeared to be the consensus of the large crowd at the Navy Show Band South's concert Wednesday.

All we have heard were praises about the wonderful music and turnout of people at the event sponsored by the Downtown Merchants Association and City of Bay St. Louis.

Many who were among the 600 there, and many who failed to attend for one reason or another, are now asking when the next concert will be.

We really enjoyed ourselves and it was good to see so many family groups at the event.

We would like to offer our congratulations to all of the folks who helped make the concert a reality. Oh yes, thanks to the Navy, too.

We have been to many Combined Agency Campaign events over the years at NSTL, but none have been as wonderful as Thursday's.

Ronnie Kole, as many of us know, is a great pianist, and a standing ovation was given him after played Amazing Grace.

Kole was also the keynote speaker for the CAC Rally and we were impressed by his many works of charity.

The CAC campaign means a lot to the United Way of Hancock County and it helps our local agency make its goal every year.

As most of you know, the Hancock County United Way campaign is now underway with a goal of $65,000. This is an increase of $10,000 over last year, so the help of everyone is needed.

We thank everyone for their help with the United Way, especially the people at NSTL.

In Congress

By Congressman Trent Lott

Soviet Union's greatest threat

It now appears that President Reagan and Communist Party Chief Mikhail Gorbachev will meet sometime this fall if an agreement can be approved on limiting medium and shorter-range nuclear weapons.

The prospect for a summit certainly gives rise to optimism, though it appears certain that the agreement on Intermediate Nuclear Forces (INF) will not eliminate the conventional military imbalance in Europe.

But I question whether the Soviet Union's military strength is what poses the real threat against the West. Isn't the political system—unanswerable to the Russian people but which oversees that military might—that is the real threat?

Columnist Charles Krauthammer, writing in The Washington Post on Sept. 25, noted that: "Hostility between East and West will be reduced, and with it the chance of war, when the Soviets demonstrate...that they are not bent on extending their rule...and that they are not bent on destroying the human spirit when they do rule."

I agree, and I had the opportunity to try to make that point to the citizens of the Soviet Union on Sept. 22 when I participated in the first live, unedited satellite television broadcast featuring Members of Congress and senior Soviet officials.

The two-hour exchange between Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee; his counterpart in the House, Congressman Les Aspin of Wisconsin, myself and a four-member Soviet panel was the first program to air live in both the Soviet Union and the United States.

I questioned the viability of Gorbachev's so-called era of glasnost and its promise of democratization. Democratization only applies to the community party, and only about seven percent of the Russian people are involved in the party. The rest of the people are expected to do its bidding.

An even smaller clique of that seven percent comprises the political system that is responsible for bringing its leaders to power. It has put in place Joseph Stalin, Nikita Khrushchev, Leonid Brezhnev and Gorbachev.

What Gorbachev calls glasnost is not a new phenomenon in Soviet political history. Every Soviet leader, with the exception of Lenin, was publicly denounced by his successor in order for the new leader to solidify his grip on the country.

For the United States and the West, we must keep in mind that the Soviet political system cannot bring about an orderly change because it is not answerable to the people as is a democracy.

Glasnost in the Soviet Union which could be countermanded tomorrow must not be equated with a fundamental reassessment of the Soviet Union's priorities in foreign affairs. Remember: the Berlin Wall went up within two months of the famous 22nd "de-Stalinizing" party Congress under Khrushchev.

And Gorbachev's glasnost comes on the heels of the Soviets' shooting down the Korean KAL passenger plane and in the midst of his sending fresh troops to the front in his war to conquer the Afghan people.

It is the continuation of an unchanged political system, and in our dealings with the Soviet Union, we should never lose sight of that fact.

Fibrositis: More than just aches and pains

Fibromyalgia, often called fibrositis, wasn't considered a specific condition until five to 10 years ago. Today, however, physicians can better diagnose patients and provide concrete help to alleviate this condition.

The symptoms of fibromyalgia, in some cases, mimic arthritic conditions. Most fibrositis patients complain of chronic aches, pains and stiffness near joints, fatigue, stiffness in the morning, poor sleeping habits, feelings of numbness, swelling in the arms and legs, intermittent constipation and diarrhea, and headaches. Yet, physicians say there's no evidence of arthritis in fibrositis sufferers.

Physicians diagnose fibrositis based on the results of a thorough physical examination and history. X-rays and blood tests are unable to help the physician detect the syndrome. The examination includes a careful check of the so-called "trigger points," a group of a dozen tender spots that are painful to the touch. Trigger points tend to be very similar in location and severity in most patients. Commonly they're present in the neck and shoulder muscles, over the elbows, lower back, hips and knees.

Doctors don't know what causes these specific areas to be tender and painful. The accepted hypothesis is that trigger points are related to muscle spasm and/or tendinitis.

An estimated three to six million Americans suffer from the symptoms of fibrositis, and up to 90 percent are women of child-bearing age. More are white women than black, and more have a history of past psychological disorders.

Physicians, however, are still debating the connection of psychological disturbances to fibrositis. The relationship of possible depression, anxiety and sleep disorders associated with this condition is being studied.

The mysterious nature of fibrositis often leads patients to internists, rheumatologists, orthopedic surgeons, neurologists, and psychiatrists to seek relief. Generally, a trigger-point exam is done and a definite diagnosis is made only after other illnesses, with similar symptoms, are ruled out.

Yet fibrositis patients aren't without hope. In defining the fibrositis ailment, medical research has provided doctors with treatment ideas for sufferers. Therapy includes the use of aspirin and other new arthritis agents. In a number of studies, antidepressant medications have improved fibrositis patients' sleep depth and duration. An exercise program that includes aerobic and stretching activities should also be part of the therapeutic approach for the patient with fibrositis.

The People's Business

Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

MISSISSIPPI'S IMAGE IMPROVES
Mississippi has had some serious image problems over the past 20 years.

Mention Mississippi outside the state some years ago and thoughts of problems associated with education, income and race relations were sure to come to mind. The rest of the nation looked at, and talked of, Mississippi as the last on the list.

The image was bad because the problems were bad.

A lot has happened since that time. Significant improvements have been made in key areas. The state not only is working to equal the opportunities available in other states, but to jump ahead of other states in what it has to offer.

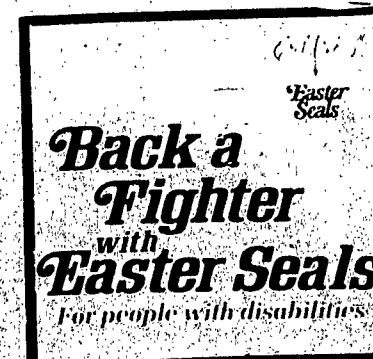

Mississippi, long thought of as an agricultural state, has joined the high technology race and has quickly and quietly become a major player.

With major high tech research facilities located in the state and efforts underway to expand further, other states are beginning to take notice of Mississippi as a location of high-tech research.

Instead of looking at Mississippi as the last-place state, the others are starting to look at Mississippi as the state to watch.

Without a doubt, Mississippi's image is improving. It's improving because the state is improving.

A closed shop for psychiatrists?

A California Court of Appeals has recently made a decision which can wipe out centuries of confidential relations between the clergy and those that seek their counsel.

The victim of the decision is Grace Community Church of the Valley, fined $1,000,000 damages because one of their counseling efforts was unsuccessful and the individual committed suicide.

The judges deciding the case carried their attack on traditional religious practices further, condemning "non-therapist counselors" to high risk.

The details of the instance are these. A troubled young man turned to the pastors for help. Although he had already attempted suicide, they did their best. In addition, and this is surely more than the average village or countryside pastor has opportunity to do, they advised psychiatric help when they realized things weren't going well and he might attempt suicide again. Their efforts failed on both fronts, and his final attempt was successful.

The first court to hear the case dismissed it, finding the damage claims without merit. For several years this stood as a rebuke to lawyers and psychiatrists who have been using damage suits as a happy hunting ground for making a lot of money based on anti-religious prejudice.

Now a higher court has intervened to re-activate the judgement and to put priests, ministers and rabbis on notice that they face astronomical malpractice damages if they fail—and interested parties in the bereaved family join with lawyers to see if cash can help assuage their grief and/or avarice.

The Nally Case, as it is coming to be called, is a formidable assault on religious liberty—one of numerous cases in recent years. It is illustrative of a marked trend to cripple the work of religious leaders and communities. In some countries, but so far not in the USA, there has been an attempt to get legislatures to pass laws limiting personal counseling to licensed psychiatrists.

Franklin H. Littell, The Hamlin Institute, POB 2147, Philadelphia Pa. 19103

The basic rule of power-conscious groups is this: hold ranks against criticism and deny everything. Very few power blocs know how to manage dissent and internal criticism, and virtually none knows how to handle outside criticism gracefully. The usual response is panic, and the more the dissent or criticism is needed the higher the degree of panic.

We are seeing this today in the response of the Teamsters to the efforts of the Federal government to help reformers in the ranks to clean house. In principle we are against government intervention in the affairs of sub-political associations: colleges, churches, unions, etc. But when an outfit has shown itself as incapable of maintaining honest standards in elections and finance as the Teamsters, the government—representing the general welfare—has no alternative but to intervene. This is done by taking receivership, appointing trustees and custodians until the stables are cleared out. The Teamsters Union has a long record of mind-boggling corruption, connections with the Mafia, embezzlement of members' retirement funds, murder of dissenters and "liquidation" of officers who try to escape gangland control. The public deserves something more responsible today than the arrogant response of the Teamsters' present officers.

We are seeing the same thing among the professional psychiatrists. Members of the American Psychiatric Association are in the forefront of the burgeoning attack on organized religion, and the APA has shown little sign of responding to appeals that they call to account the little clique that is making money on cult-bashing. Major church groups have appealed to them in the name of religious liberty, but they have refused to listen.

Even more symbolic of the psychiatric closed shop is the way they treat dissent in their own ranks. Right now a prominent member of the profession, Dr. Peter R. Breggin, has raised serious questions about the common practice of prescribing unnecessary and habit-forming drugs.

This abuse is widespread in the treatment of school children as well as older patients. Some members of the network are now trying to get Dr. Breggin's license removed because of his criticism of abuses in his own profession!

But self-criticism is the free society's alternative to statism.

October designated AIDS Prevention/Awareness Month

October has been designated National AIDS Prevention and Awareness Month, and the Mississippi State Department of Health recognizes this coordinated effort as a time to educate Mississippians about this deadly disease.

"This month focuses on education and information about AIDS and HIV infection," said Dr. Ed Thompson, state epidemiologist.

Acquired Immunodeficiency Syndrome (AIDS) is a condition characterized by a breakdown in the body's immune system. When the immune system is weakened, the body can't fight off infections.

Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV) causes AIDS. Once a person is infected with the AIDS virus, he or she remains infected for life and can transmit the virus to others. It is not known whether everyone infected with HIV will develop AIDS.

"A person with AIDS is susceptible to opportunistic diseases—or illnesses which ordinarily pose little or no threat to someone with a healthy immune system," explained Dr. Thompson.

"Education is the only tool we have to fight AIDS and HIV infection," Dr. Thompson warned.

Christened "America Responds to AIDS," the Centers for Disease Control program is a nationwide coordination of events slated to occur during this month-long concentrated education and awareness campaign.

The Mississippi State Department of Health is pitching in with statewide educational efforts targeted towards the general public and specific groups—including school children, those who think they may be infected with the AIDS virus, and those in the medical field.

The October release of six AIDS educational pamphlets, all originated by the State Department of Health, will address these specific groups.

One pamphlet entitled "HIV Infection" is designed for use by the general public. It covers transmission of the AIDS virus—how's and how not's—discusses risk behaviors, and defines AIDS and HIV infection. "HIV Infection" is available to the general public in limited quantities.

State Department of Health staff will also travel statewide throughout October to address key groups about AIDS, including the 7th Annual Mississippi Education Conference, an Infectious Disease Seminar, and several town forums.

Since 1981, when the AIDS virus was first recognized, Mississippi has reported 79 cases of AIDS; 68 of these are confirmed, and 11 cases are provisional. Over half of these 79 AIDS cases—46 victims—are now dead.

"With information available now, anyone can make themselves 'immune' to HIV infection by avoiding behaviors that can expose them to the virus," stressed Dr. Thompson.

"That's what AIDS Awareness Month is all about," he added.

Readers may contact the Mississippi State Department of Health Office of Public Relations, P.O. Box 1700, Jackson, MS 39215-1700 for more information on ordering AIDS pamphlets.

Waveland approves reducing speed limit

BY DENA BISNETTE

The City of Waveland has approved a 30 m.p.h. speed limit for Beach Boulevard.

According to Mayor John Longo Jr., the new limit will go into effect after a 30-day legal advertisement and extends from the end of Buccaneer State Park to the city limits line between Bienville Court and Bay Oaks Drive.

Signs denoting the new limit, which is slower than the existing 35 m.p.h., will be posted on both sides of the road.

Longo said the Waveland Board of Aldermen approved the new speed limit Tuesday in the interest of public safety.

The mayor said he had requested the new limit after being approached by Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. about the feasibility of providing a uniform speed limit.

The limit has been 25 m.p.h. on most parts of the beach road outside Waveland.

"Taking the limit down a few more miles will provide more safety for the people using the beach," he explained.

Bay St. Louis, at its city council meeting, took the matter under advisement after Ward One Councilman Lisa Coward opposed the increase from 25 m.p.h. on North Beach Boulevard due to the number of children who use the seawall.

Hancock County Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge said the county had had the beach road posted at 30 m.p.h.

In addition, there is a weight limit on the beach which was imposed after two hurricanes damaged the road.

The road actually belongs to the county, Courge said, but the cities provide law enforcement inside their corporate limits.

"It ought to be a uniform speed if it's safe. It's kind of a speed trap when a driver leaves one city and goes into another without realizing it," Courge said.

Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner, whose district includes the area that Coward feels should remain at 25 m.p.h., said he agrees with the councilman about the different situation on North Beach Boulevard.

"I do agree it's a little different simply because there is no beach, but there is a lot more fishing, cycling and walking out there. It might be good to leave it a little slower because there is more pedestrian traffic," Ladner said.

"For the rest of the beach, more uniformity would be beneficial," Ladner said.

Longfellow Drive problem received by wrong entity

BY DENA BISNETTE

Complaints regarding a shell-filled cut across Longfellow Drive for pipeline installation have been channelled to the wrong public entity.

The cut across the road, located near the Hancock County Fairgrounds entrance, was made by Applied Construction, a contractor working for the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District, the district's Assistant Administrator Jean Longo stated Friday.

She said she had received no complaints regarding the rut other than one she read in a letter to the editor in Sunday's Sea Coast Echo.

The rut can not be permanently filled in until after the pipeline has been completed and tested, she said.

"Letters to the editor don't count. We have to have a written complaint made to us if someone wants to complain," she said.

John Longo Jr., who is chairman of the wastewater board, said he had not received any complaints either.

However, Hancock County Maintenance Superintendent Bill Johnson said he had received "a couple of dozen complaints, with two or three of the people claiming they had damage to their cars."

He said he went down to inspect the problem and found out the pipeline was a wastewater district project.

He said Friday that if he plans to submit a letter to the wastewater board explaining that he has been the one receiving the complaints.

Beat Four Supervisor Sam Perniciaro, whose private business is a wrecker service, said one of his wreckers picked up a car last week that the owner claimed had been damaged because the shells had been knocked out of the cut across the street, creating a ditch.

He said that was the first complaint he heard, but the road is not in his district.

Jean Longo said the contractor was scheduled to add some fill material with more plasticity, possibly clay gravel, on Friday.

Farm Safety Week

Accidents cause loss of lives, dollars

By Eva Ann Dorris
Mississippi cooperative
Extension Service

As farmers enter prime time harvest season, farm safety and caution may be taking a back seat to thoughts of good prices and yields.

But statistics show that absent-mindedness and carelessness on the farm cost lives and dollars.

"Already this year, tractor accidents have claimed the lives of seven Mississippi residents," said Herb Willcutt, an agricultural engineer with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"Since 1982, 69 tractor-related deaths have been reported in the state," Willcutt said. "This is in addition to hundreds of other farm deaths and injuries and thousands of lost dollars associated with these deaths and injuries."

Promoters of the 44th annual Farm Safety Week set for Sept. 20-26 hope the observance will help farmers and their employees become more aware of the cause of farm accidents and the financial burden associated with accidents.

According to figures released by the National Safety Council, agricultural work accidents resulted in about 1,700 deaths and 170,000 disabling injuries nationwide in 1986.

Agriculture remains among the nation's most hazardous major industry divisions with an accidental death rate of 52 per 100,000 workers in 1986, a slight increase from 1985.

Willcutt said figures from the council show the cost of an average disabling work injury in the United States is $12,200, while the average fatal work injury totals $460,000.

"The tractor is one of the most hazardous pieces of farm equipment," Willcutt said. "Most accidents occur with part time users of older tractors that do not have roll-over protection bars or seat belts.

"Drivers are crushed by tractors that roll over them and often innocent bystanders are pinned and crushed by tractors or equipment attached to tractors," Willcutt said.

This year's theme for Farm Safety Week, "Farm Safety Makes Good Sense," stresses the significant financial advantages of investing time and effort into preventing injury and illness on the farm, especially during times of economic stress.

Farm Safety Week is sponsored by the National Safety Council, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Hancock Hawks swat district foe

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Whatever Hancock North Central coaches told the players at halftime of the Hawk vs. St. Martin game, worked.

It was like a different team came out of the to play the second half. Even the players on the sideline put 100 percent into the game as the cheering for those on the field never stopped in the third and fourth quarters.

The Hawks were behind at halftime, with St. Martin leading 15-12. But their spirits were high returning to the field and Halfback Terrence Goff lifted them even higher with a 90-yard kickoff return for a touchdown that stopped the clock just 21 seconds into the third quarter.

The momentum never switched and the Hawks went from being down three points to win by a comfortable margin.

Hancock Head Coach Irvin Favre said he just told the players it was up to them.

"We told them as a coaching staff there was nothing else we could do and if they wanted to win they had to do it," he said.

In first quarter action, the two teams traded punts on their offensive possessions of the ball but a Yellow Jacket fumble recovered by Hawk Dwayne Acker set Hancock in motion for a touchdown.

Quarterback Jeff Moran started the drive with an eight-yard gain on a keeper play.

There was a loss of two yards on the second down and then Goff stepped out to the right side and found an opening that he stretched all the way to the endzone for a 22-yard touchdown run.

A two-point conversion attempt was no good but the Hawks' lead 6-0 with five minutes left in the first quarter.

St. Martin and Hancock traded possessions again without much gain and then the Yellow Jackets began a march from their own 32-yard line to the endzone.

The trek down the field was led by Ernest Moseley and Bryan Stephens but Jay Ford had the final move when he received a screen pass from Quarterback Terry Hilton and scouted 26-yards downfield for the touchdown.

A good kick by St. Martin's Bryan Stephens put the Yellow Jackets in the lead.

Turning the tables on St. Martin, Hancock "put on a little reverse" and Goff returned the kickoff to score again for the Hawks.

The Hawks advanced to a 12-7 lead but were unable to add any extra points.

St. Martin's drive ended with the quarterback being knocked out of bounds on a fourth and seven.

Next the Hawks were forced to punt the ball.

The Yellow Jackets scored a couple of first downs before Jay Ford broke loose and ran 53 yards to score.

A bad snap to Kicker Bryan Stephens turned into two points when Stephens scooped up the ball and tossed it to Eric Hook who was standing in the endzone.

At halftime, St. Martin led 15-12.

Goff's 90-yard kickoff return for a touchdown started things out right in the third quarter for the Hawks who took a 15-19 lead in less than 20 seconds of play.

His outstanding performance continued with a punt returned 53 yards for another touchdown with 10:19 left on the clock in the third quarter.

Larry Beeck kicked the extra point.

Neither St. Martin nor Hancock moved the ball very far in the next offensive possessions but a snap of the Hancock punter's head gave the Yellow Jackets a first and 10 on the Hawk 18-yard line.

This is when Hancock defense dug in and only allowed two yards before forcing St. Martin to return possession to the Hawk offense.

Not to be outdone the St. Martin defense put up a stand that stopped the Hawks from scoring when they only lacked four yards to the endzone.

The Yellow Jacket offense could not get an extra first down and possession returned to Hancock who began its final scoring drive of the night.

Splitend Vincent Cuevas assisted in this drive and Moran took it in from one yard out.

Moran picked off a Yellow Jacket pass to return possession to the Hawks in the final minutes of the game.

Final score was Hancock 32, St. Martin 15.

Next weeks the Hawks will be at home as they take on the Long Beach Bearcats.

Poplarville pounds out 35-13 win over Rocks

The Poplarville Hornets were down the visiting St. Stanislaus Rockchaws Friday en route to claiming a 35-13 homecoming win over the Rocks.

The Hornets racked up 21 first downs and 269 yards in total offense while holding the Rocks to only four first downs and 26 yards on the ground.

Coach Larry Ramsey's Rockchaw defense did a commendable job. In the first half, the Rocks kept the Hornets from scoring three different times from inside their 20-yard line.

Meriting praise from the coaches was tackle Craig Sweeney, who in addition to 8 unassisted tackles, boomed a 69-yard punt in the second quarter.

SSC went in at halftime ahead 7-6, thanks to Shannon Garrett's 70-yard interception and touchdown return of Hornet QB Randy Morris' errant pass.

Poplarville got their first half points on a 48-yard touchdown run by Chris Mixon with a minute left in the first quarter.

The Rockchaw defense would bend but did not break in the first half. While allowing the Hornets to gain yardage and gather first downs, the Rocks managed to force and recover two Hornet fumbles deep in SSC territory.

In the third quarter, Poplarville played ball-control offense, keeping the ball on the ground to suit their Wing-T offense. Running back Mixon, who gained 139 yards in the contest, and slotback Earnest Napier, who accounted for 80 yards, led the Hornet attack.

As time expired in the third quarter, Mixon broke through the SSC line and raced 16 yards for the go-ahead score.

A successful two-point conversion gave Poplarville a 14-7 lead.

The Rockchaw offense started to come to life in the fourth quarter as QB Yasin Shabazz gained 19 yards on a keeper, but the drive stalled and Sweeney had to punt.

Mixon fielded Sweeney's punt and returned it to midfield. The Hornets marched 50 yards in eight plays for their next score, with Mixon blasting over from the one-yard line.

Noah Hollis extra point was good and Poplarville was in control, 21-7, with 4:22 left in the game.

SSC's passing game came to life. After Gino Ascani returned the Poplarville kickoff to the SSC 20, Shabazz went to work and found Wirstrom open for a 25-yard pickup.

Next, Shabazz hit a wide-open Garrett deep in the secondary. Garrett was brought down on the Hornet eight-yard line.

On the next play Shabazz hit Freddie Wirstrom for the score, and with 3:18 left the Rocks were back in the game, 21-13.

Hornet kick-off returner Chris Mixon took the ensuing kickoff on his seven-yard line and raced 93 yards for the clinching touchdown. Hollis' PAT made the score 28-13.

Poplarville's defense knew the Rocks had to throw the ball. On first down, Shabazz' pass to Garrett was intercepted by Bryant Fairley who returned it to the SSC 12-yard line.

Reserve tailback Carlos Peters broke several tackles on his 10-yard touchdown run, giving the Hornets a sweet homecoming victory, 35-13.

Coach Pat Morris of Poplarville had praise for his troops.

"I am proud of our boys. I knew we had to hold the ball on offense in order to win. We gave Stanislaus a lot of opportunities, but our defense played well and held them."

In his post-game remarks, Coach Ken Lyons of the Rockchaws asked his squad to do a little soul-searching.

"We have several of our players who did not have their minds on the ballgame tonight," said Coach Lyons.

"We missed a lot of blocking assignments, and did not get into any offensive rhythm. Unless our athletes make up their minds to come out and play hard-hitting, aggressive football, things like this will happen," continued Coach Lyons.

"I felt that our defense played well, considering the amount of time they were on the field. It's sort of a paradox. Their offense was on the field too much, but they didn't seem to wear down."

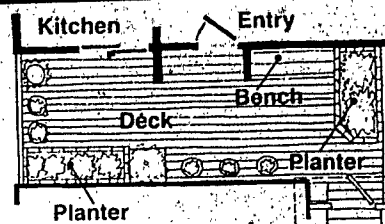

Rockchaw defensive coordinator Larry Ramsey remarked, "Our effort was good, even though it seemed like we were on the field all night. We need more penetration from our people if we are going to shut down a good running team."

Next Thursday night the Rockchaws travel to Metairie, LA, to face Riverdale High School. Riverdale is 1-5, having lost Friday to East St. John, 12-0.

Bay High Tigers defeat Bearcats, 24-8

The Bay High Tigers defeated Long Beach Bearcats 24-8 Friday, boosting the Tigers winning streak to five games.

Scoring began in the first quarter when Quarterback Chad LaFontaine connected with Doug Rhodes for a 12-yard touchdown pass. The PAT failed.

The Tigers scored twice in the second quarter, both on handoffs from LaFontaine to Brian Laneaux for a 43-yard touchdown and a 10-yard touchdown. The PAT on both occasions failed.

A 32-yard field goal attempt by Joel Duncan in the second quarter was also unsuccessful.

According to Head Tiger Coach Cleveland Williams a few crucial mental breakdowns in the second half caused the Tiger momentum to shift slightly.

As a result, this set up Long Beach's only touchdown, he said.

The Bearcats scored on a three-yard plunge but the two-point conversion attempt failed.

The Tigers special team broke down on a punting attempt and allowed the Bearcats to score a safety.

The Tigers scored again in the final quarter on a handoff from LaFontaine to Laneaux for a 13-yard touchdown.

In this game Laneaux added three more touchdowns to his total and he now has scored 17 touchdowns and rushed for 960 yards in only six games.

"The Tigers have proven that they can play ball out of their division by defeating the class 5A Bearcats," Williams said.

"Even though the Tigers had a few mental breakdowns, they did not fall apart. The Tigers showed that they could stay together after having a lot of breakdowns," he added.

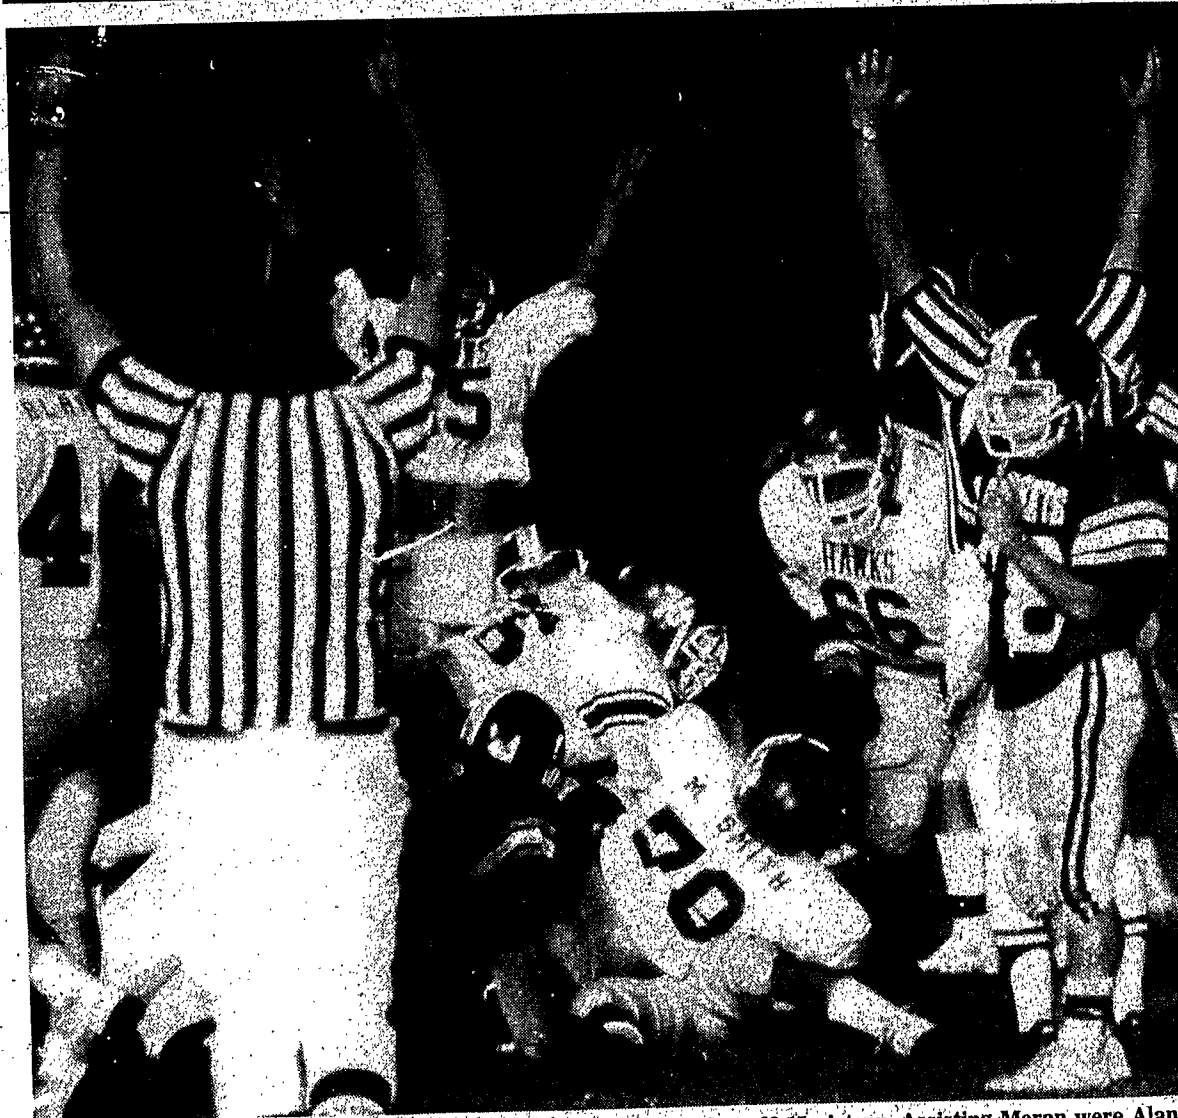

Williams says a few adjustments will have to be made on the special teams because in a tight situation, it could easily cause Tigers to lose a game.

"I'm very proud of our young Tigers. Everyone out there contributed to the success," he said.

The Bay High Tigers had 210 yards rushing and 59 yards passing for an offensive total of 269.

Long Beach rushed for 51 yards and had 53 yards passing for 104 total offense.

The Tigers will be open this week but will return to the field Oct. 23 to host the St. Martin Yellow Jackets.

ALL HANDS UP as Hancock North Central scores their fifth touchdown of the night, Friday against the St. Martin Yellow Jackets. Located somewhere in the pile is Quarterback Jeff Moran who made the final yard to give the Hawks a 32-15 victory. Assisting Moran were Alan Prince (76), Marty Smith (78) and Daryl Booker (66). (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

East Central downs Pirates

The East Central Hornets defeated the Pass Christian Pirates 7-0 Friday night at Pass Christian.

The only scoring came on a four-yard run by Ray Parsley and Tim Scarborough's PAT.

Next week the Pirates will host the Pearl River Central Blue Devils. Kickoff will be at 7:30 p.m.

Anthony seeks District 5 supervisor's position

Republican Mike Anthony is seeking the Fifth District supervisor position in Hancock County.

Anthony, 40, is a six-year resident of the Garden Island community, retired after 20 years of service in the U.S. Army and presently employed by the Non-Commissioned Officers' Association of America.

He lists experience in business, finance, government and public relations. His wife, Kathy, is a registered nurse at Hancock Medical Center in Bay St. Louis.

"County tax dollars are in short supply and it is imperative that we end inefficiency, duplication and waste," the candidate stated in announcing his candidacy in the Nov. 3 General Election.

Anthony says the unit system must be used in the way it was intended if it is to serve the people of the county. He supports the unit system without reservation and cited the present road and drainage situation "a patchwork system."

Anthony feels a 20-year program is necessary for the growth and development of Hancock County as a whole.

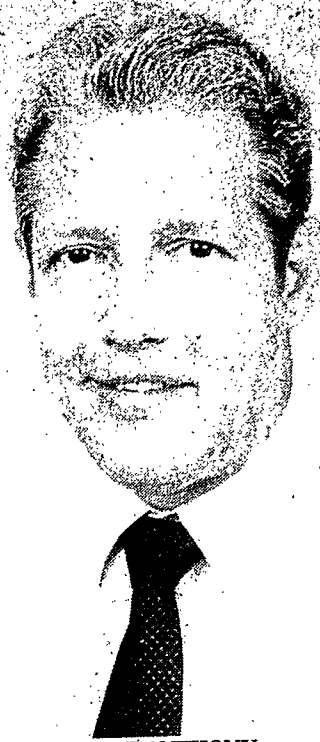

Anthony says that county workers have expressed fear for their jobs in the event he is elected. He wishes to assure them that if they know their jobs and are doing them well, they have no problem. He says that he owes no favors to anyone and wants the best possible people on the job.

"We have the resources we need to grow and expand. But, there is no free lunch, nor any substitute for hard work. Hancock County could be a recreational paradise if properly developed and marketed, and the earnings from tourism could fuel our growth," he added.

"Conventional thinking holds that the only way to improve governmental service is to raise taxes or sell bonds. I am the only candidate with a program for addressing these problems by bringing in production-oriented businesses to increase the tax base, increase employment and stimulate local businesses," the candidate continued.

"It is time we got the good ole boy system out of our politics. The changes we need to make will take time and patience, in any case, but without our willingness to change, they may be impossible. I am the only candidate for supervisor in District Five who can provide the kind of aggressive leadership and persistence necessary to make these changes," he stated.

Immigrant Plants—As American as Apple Pie?

By Jim Benson

Well, sure. Most Americans are descended from immigrants, and so are apples—from ancestors somewhere south of the Black Sea.

In fact, except for the likes of blueberries, cranberries, sunflowers, and Jerusalem artichokes, most U.S. food plants are natives of other lands.

Lettuce graced the tables of Persian kings in 550 B.C. and was a favorite salad of pre-Christian Romans. Cucumbers were cultivated in India 3,000 years ago. The walls of 5,000-year-old Egyptian tombs include pictures of laborers eating onions.

Remains of peas have been found in prehistoric Swiss lake dwellings, possibly left on their plates by finicky Bronze Age children.

Olives, usually associated with Greece and Italy, are now believed to have originated in India, along with oranges, black-eyed peas and rice.

Isn't rice a native of China? No, but the Chinese did give the world peaches, apricots and rhubarb.

Besides onions, citizens of ancient Egypt ate such familiar American foods as asparagus, cabbage, radishes and watermelons. Centuries ago, Ethiopians ate okra and barley and drank coffee.

Many of the food plants cultivated today in the U.S. are native to the southern part of the western hemisphere. Avocados were grown in Central and South America 9,000 years ago. Corn, cacao, tomatoes, squash, peppers, peanuts, pineapples, pumpkins, and many kinds of beans came from Latin America. So did—saving the best for last—strawberries, natives of Chile.

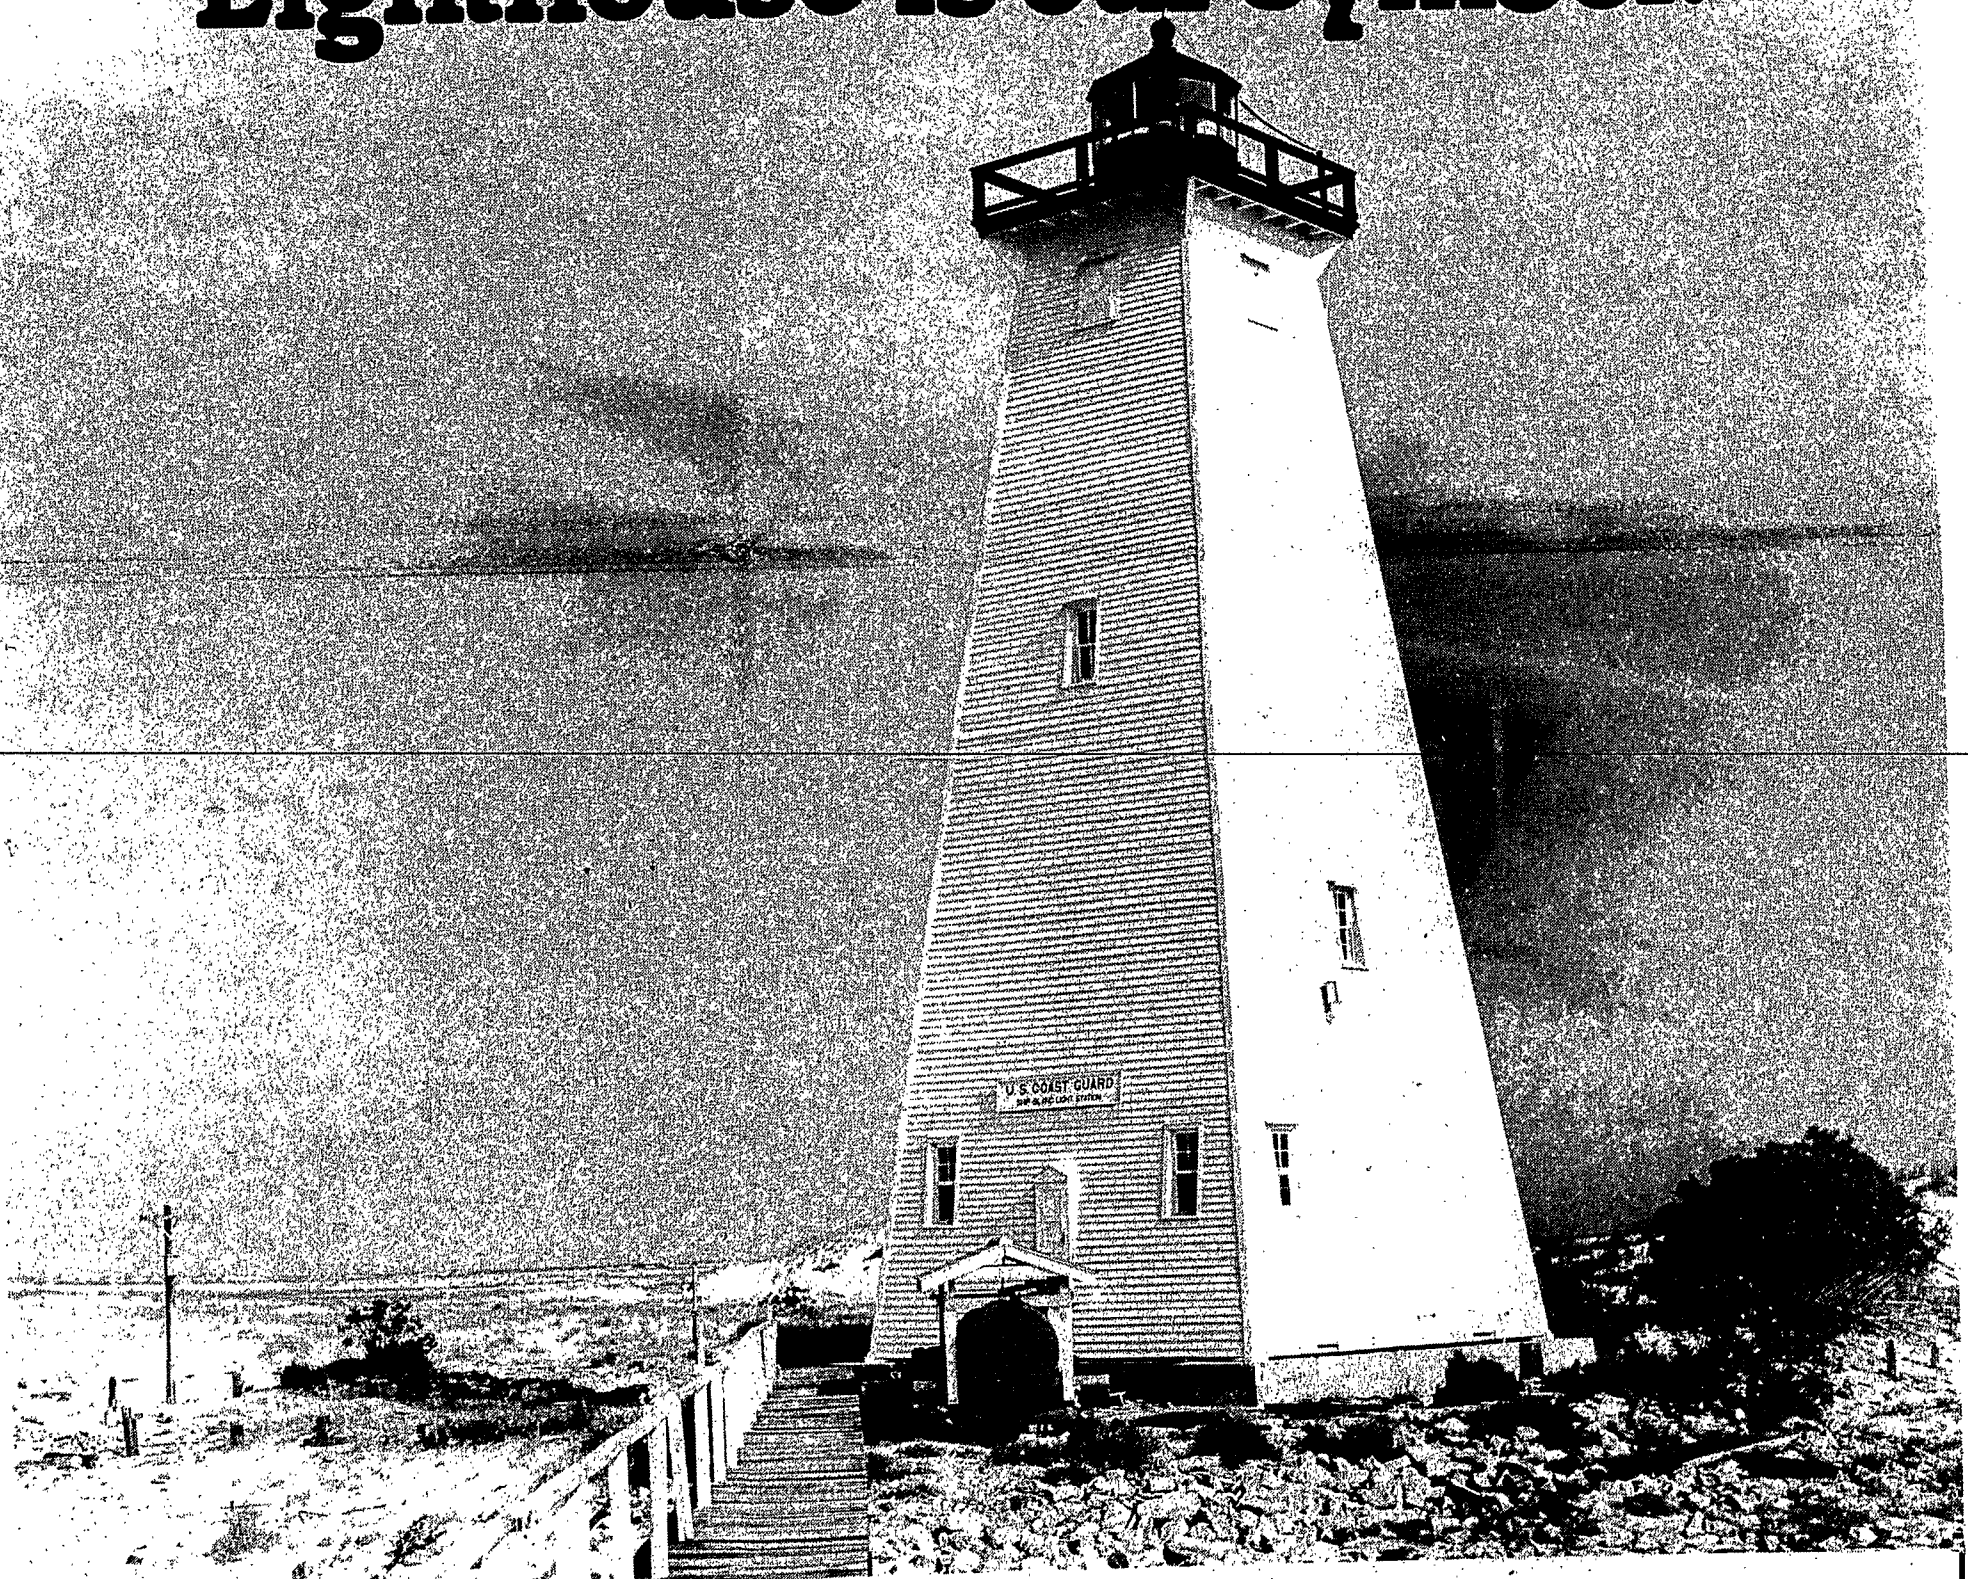

"If the United States didn't have such a good history of plant introduction and research, our restaurants would have pretty monotonous menus," says Howard J. Brooks, who oversees horticultural research for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service.

Some recent imports through the ARS plant exploration and introduction program include fruits with high content of essential vitamins and minerals. One is the lychee nut, sometimes called "a strawberry with a peel," imported from southern China.

The lychee nut can supply 40 percent more vitamin C per pound than oranges. Another is the carambola, a star-shaped fruit introduced from Taiwan and Thailand. Carambola is a good source of vitamins A and C, potassium and iron, and carambola orchards are expanding rapidly in Florida.

Why the old Ship Island Lighthouse is our symbol.

We remember the proud protector as she stood watch over the island for nearly a century.

In her day, the magnificent wooden structure known as Ship Island Lighthouse was a certain sign of security, summoning weary sailors home from the sea.

She weathered every storm, even Camille. And even though a careless camper's fire destroyed her in 1972, folks fondly recall South Mississippi's most loyal lady.

It's no coincidence that Hancock Bank chose Ship Island Lighthouse to be its symbol. Both were born here. And both share nearly a century of strength, security and service.

And just as sailors of old looked to the lighthouse beacon for guidance, so too do thousands of South Mississippi families look to Hancock Bank.

We'll always be here, in good times and bad, through every storm. Making it possible for South Mississippians to realize their hopes and dreams.

Because this is our tradition, this is our heritage.

But most of all, this is our home.

MAKING IT POSSIBLE SINCE 1899

LIBRARY PRESENTATION—The Learning Ladies and Lakeshore Club of the Hancock County Home Extension Club recently presented 2,500 bookmarkers to the Hancock County Library System in honor of the bicentennial of the United States Constitution. Norma Haas, front left, president of the Learning Ladies, made the presentation to library system director Prima Wusnack. Also shown are club members, rear from left, Helen Stanley, Joan Gauthier, Tommie Ziegler, Gloria May and Kay Wolfe. The blue bookmarkers are printed with the symbol of the bicentennial celebration followed by the Preamble to the Constitution. According to Haas, the club members wanted to participate in the celebration and help remind people of the importance of the historic document in daily life.

Greek Night is fast approaching

There is a lot of cooking going on at the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church on Beauvoir Road, in preparations for Greek Night on Oct. 24.

For example, 75 pounds of ground chuck was mixed with garlic, onions, bread crumbs, and other spices, in order to prepare the Keffethes (meatballs) which will be served as part of the appetizers.

This mixture made up nearly 4,000 meatballs, and were prepared by the local church community members. The other Greek appetizers that will be served are Tiropetaki (cheese pies), whose filling include 4 different cheeses, including Feta, and are wrapped individually in "fillo."

The appetizers are served with cocktails. These appetizers will wet your appetite and prepare your taste buds for the delicious home prepared dinner.

The Greek cuisine this year will feature a Greek Pasta, Manestra, which will be served with Arni Psito (roast lamb) and Kota Ringani (roast chicken).

There will be the popular individual Spanakopetaki (spinach pies), Dolmathes (stuffed grape leaves) with lemon-egg sauce; Greek salad, with large Greek olives and feta cheese.

The final touch in the buffet line is the dessert, the ever popular and delicious, Baklava.

At the tables, home-baked Greek bread will be in loaves, and bottles of Greek and American wines will be waiting for everyone.

Featured as entertainment for the evening are the newly organized Gulf Coast Hellenic Dancers under the direction of Coco Collins of Ocean Springs.

They will present 15 minutes of exhibition dances from the islands and mainland of Greece. The troupe will be in costumes depicting various areas of Greece.

Photine Vlahos, of Biloxi, will sing popular songs in Greek.

At 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. the Greek and American dance music will be provided by Tykie and The Grecian Keys of Warren, Ohio. The Keys have been to several Greek Nights in Biloxi. They play any type of music for dancing.

The ticket holder will be able to participate in the above listed items, as well as have a chance to win one of the four door prizes to be offered. First prize is a round trip for two to Tarpon Springs, Fla. which includes lodging, rental car and air fare.

Second prize is reserved round table for ten guests at Greek Night, 1988.

Third prize is a bountiful Christmas basket of home-made Greek pastries.

Fourth is two bottles of international Greek favorites—classic Metaxa brandy and Ouzo, the famous dry aperitif.

Greek Night is a major fund-raising event for the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox church located on the Coast in Biloxi.

The spiritual leader for the Holy Trinity Church is Father Dan Zeatas, previously from Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

The co-chairmen of Greek Night, 1987, are Kay Fhiaris and John Serafin of Gulfport and Demetri Vlahos, of Biloxi.

Other Chairmen are George and Angie Mavromihalis of Pascagoula; Reservations, Vangie Roybal, of Biloxi; Food Preparations, Helen Taylor of Biloxi and Kay Fhiaris of Gulfport; Decorations, Linda and Louis Peters of Ocean Springs; Appetizers, Rosa Bloom of Gulfport, and cocktails, Louis Mestier of Ocean Springs.

"This 20th Annual Greek Night promises to be the most fun-filled and festive of all prior Greek Nights. Tickets are still available through the Mississippi Coast Coliseum Ticket office and Church members. Make your plans to attend now. Do come and experience a touch of Greece on the Coast," Vlahos said.

Dance lessons are being offered to ticket holders on Tuesday, Oct. 13 and Thursday, Oct. 22, at 7 p.m. at the Holy Trinity Church on Beauvoir Road in the recreation room.

Clubs, Auxiliaries

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1987-1B

Pass Christian Garden Club

Mrs. Charles Blanchard Sr. of Pensacola, Fla. spoke to members of the Pass Christian Garden Club at their meeting Thursday, Oct. 1 in the Hancock Bank Civic Center about the world-famous botanist William Bartram. She gave a complete background of his life from childhood until his death.

Mrs. Lelia Cassidy, chairman of the wildflower garden and William Bartram Arboretum, announced plans to tag all trees and to clear paths in the garden.

Plans were announced for the annual craft, bake and plant sale to be held Oct. 16 in the Hancock Bank Civic Center from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. All members and the public are invited to attend.

Mrs. Robert Doe, president, reminded all members of the flower show workshop to be held at the Hancock Bank Civic Center on Nov. 19, 9:30-11:30 a.m. and 1-3 p.m. She urged all members to attend.

Mrs. Michael Eubanks and Mrs. Thomas Shea, hostesses, and their co-hostesses served refreshments after the meeting.

Next meeting will be Nov. 5 at the Hancock Bank Civic Center at 11 a.m.

Hancock Women's Club

The Hancock Women's Club held its monthly meeting at the House of Catfish, Hwy. 90, Waveland on Thursday, Oct. 8, with Lois Cripple presiding.

Enough grocery items to fill a large box were collected for donation to the Hancock County Food Pantry.

Lois Cripple was winner of the day's door prize, and Geneva Gegenheimer was announced as the winner of the 'guess who' baby contest held at last month's meeting.

Marion Rapp, assistant hospitality chairman, will take over hospitality for the balance of the year.

The membership voted to donate $200 to the Food Pantry and $100 to the Mississippi Sheriff's Boys' and Girls' Ranches.

There will be two additional events held by the club this month. On Oct. 25 at 2 p.m., there will be a barbecue at the home of Margie Lange. Husbands, other family members and guests are welcome. October 29 at 1 p.m. a fun and games day will be hosted at the home of Ruth Gallagher. Marie Brasseman will conduct a workshop on decorating a sweater or blouse with sequins and beads.

The club will hold a yard and bake sale at the home of Bess Owen, 430 Main Street, Bay St. Louis on Saturday, Nov. 7 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

The next regular meeting will be at the Waveland Library on Nov. 12.

Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs

The Mississippi Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs held their Oct. 2 meeting at the Gulf Hills Inn. Hostess clubs were Gulf Hills Garden Club, Ocean Springs Garden Club, and Southern Pines Garden Club. Mrs. C.E. Davis gave the welcome, and Mrs. Arthur French gave the meditation—Freedom in America.

President Edie Dreher introduced the speaker, Jeff Taylor, who is a senior planner for Southern Mississippi Planning Development District. After 3 years study he has developed this plan. He distributed copies of Sand Beach Master Plan (Harrison Co.) and Master Plan for Shorefront Protection and Utilization for Hancock County.

This plan has been approved for the 900 acres of beach and the budget for 5.2 million. The problem of erosion control will include the natural means of plants and grasses, not by mechanical equipment only. Various hardy grasses will be planted 30-40 ft. from the sea wall. Garden clubs may contribute plants.

Many reports were given, Arbor Day Feb. 12, Year Books due by Oct. 15, Clower-Thornton Nature Park (10 acres) behind Gulfport VA Hospital, Rosina Feeney Spring Pilgrimage chairman, Apr. 4-17, Bay-Waveland-Diamond Head Flower Show, 10 a.m. Oct. 15, Biloxi Christmas Coffee Dec. 4. The Council voted to plant a tree at Beauvoir in memory of Margaret Sherry on Arbor Day Feb. 12, 1988.

Scrapbook awards were presented by Mrs. John Drevarte to three classes of clubs.

Class I, 1-29 members: 1. Wood Glenn Garden Club; 2. Gautier Garden Club; 3. Southern Pines Garden Club.

Class II, 30-59 members: 1. Dogwood Garden Club; 2. Gulf Hills Garden Club; 3. Ocean Springs Garden Club.

Class III, 60 or more members: 1. Pass Christian Garden Club; 2. Diamond Head Garden Club; 3. Bay-Waveland Garden Club.

The next meeting of Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs will be at the Long Beach Garden Center Nov. 6, at 1:30 p.m.

Bay-Waveland Garden Club

The Bay-Waveland Garden Club met Thursday, Oct. 8 at the Garden Center, 114 Leonhard Avenue, Bay St. Louis. The meeting was called to order by president, Mrs. Thomas Tompkins. Mrs. Julian Lorenzen gave the devotion. Minutes were read by Mrs. S. E. Ambrose and approved by the membership. Mrs. Victor Cavorac gave the treasurer's report.

Several of the garden club officers attended The Spanish Trail District Meeting and brought back a number of awards.

Mrs. S. E. Ambrose chose as her topic on birds, 'The Whistling Swan' which was first sighted and given that name by Lewis of the Lewis and Clark Expeditions in 1806. It is noted that these two men along with their discoveries of new territories for the U.S. Government were also interested in wildlife along their many trips along the Atlantic States.

Many library arrangements were placed in the Bay St. Louis Library by Mrs. Randle Hutton and in the Waveland Library by Mrs. Walter Crawley. The Commercial Beautification Award was given to the Reed Nursing Home and was placed there by Mrs. George Baud.

The many beds of white phlox at the home are spectacular at this time of year. Mrs. John Newkirk will have a slide show on 'Litter Critters' which will be held in the elementary schools of Hancock County on Nov. 18 and 19. The showing at St. Clare will be Oct. 18 at 2:15 p.m. Mrs. Newkirk also gave final instructions on preparing plants for the flower show which will be at the Hancock County Fair Nov. 4 through 7.

Mrs. John Holmes and her committees will have a sweet booth at the fair on the above dates and is asking for donations of sweets and needs help in manning the booth.

Mrs. Holmes, in her talk on the environment, made us aware of the tons of garbage and trash dumped into our Gulf waters by commercial fishing fleets and also by our local fishermen. Please keep all of your trash, especially plastics, out of our waters. Help us to clean our waters and beaches.

The garden club members, at the suggestion of Mrs. Rene de Montluzin, will present a letter to the council members of Bay St. Louis in hope of getting their help to clean the weeds and trash from the Cedar Point Cemetery. It seems that this cemetery is cleaned up once a year around All Saints Day, but the rest of the time it really is in a deplorable condition.

The plant for the silent auction was donated by Mrs. Francis Laigast. It was a 'Dracaena' or corn plant.

Mrs. Clarence Evans introduced two new members, Mrs. Herbert Dubuisson and Mrs. Keith Mitchell.

Mrs. Thomas Murphree and her hostesses served a delicious buffet.

North Bay Elementary PTO

North Bay Elementary PTO recently conducted its first official meeting. Gary Strom, president, called the meeting to order and introduced the officers for the school year who include Strom; Mark Boston, vice-president; Ms. Michele Marengo, secretary; Ms. Aubrey Mueller, publicity chairperson; Ms. Terry Brown, teacher-interface and Ms. Margie DiBenedetto, parliamentary and parent interface.

Boston gave a short treasury report on North Bay's PTO account. Allegro company was chosen as the PTO chocolate fundraiser starting Sept. 26 and ending Oct. 6. Purpose of the fundraiser is to buy at least one computer per classroom.

Mrs. Marengo presented the school t-shirt to the audience which will be sold not as a fundraiser but to promote school spirit. The t-shirts are available for $4 in the school office in adult sizes small, medium, large and extra-large and in children's sizes small, medium and large. Checks for the t-shirts should be made out to North Bay PTO.

The Halloween carnival will be held on Friday, Oct. 30 from 12:30 p.m. until the end of the school day. A sheet of paper was passed out for parents to sign up to help with the Halloween carnival.

Ms. Aubrey Mueller explained the teacher appreciation program which will start in October with the kindergarten teachers. Roger James, principal of North Bay Elementary, discussed how Pepsi-Cola bottle caps were being collected as a fundraiser. The school bus safety week held Sept. 20-25 and North Bay's volunteer program were also discussed. Handouts were given explaining the programs described by James.

Strom talked of the possibility of a CPR program given by the Bay St. Louis Police Department for the parents or other interested citizens. Richard Flowers said Hancock County Medical Center sponsors programs such as speakers bureau and first aid.

The last day for soccer registration was Sept. 17. Cub Scout Pack 207 will meet soon. Mrs. Tonya Pernicari, kindergarten teacher, was winner of the parent attendance award.

FAMILY LIFE—Mrs. Flora Kearley, Family Life chairman of the Hancock County Homemakers Council, and Mrs. Joan Little, committee member from the Riverview Homemakers Club, have placed bridal kits in the Circuit Clerk's Office in the Hancock County Courthouse. These kits will be given to couples applying for a marriage license. The kits contain offers of free gifts from local merchants, recipes and helpful reading to inform young married couples.

Unit 77, American Legion Auxiliary

Members of American Legion Auxiliary Unit 77 in Waveland are participating in the Kidney Foundation's Annual Holiday Candy Sale.

This event is one of the most important fund raising events of the year for the foundation. Proceeds from the candy sale are used to fund patients services such as the Drug Discount Program, Crisis Fund and Medical Alert Tag Program; research, both at the state and national level and public and professional education and research.

Another important purpose of the Candy Sale is to focus attention on the problem of kidney disease in Mississippi. Our state has the highest death rate, per capita, of any state from kidney disease. In fact, more Mississippians die each year from kidney related disease than from automobile accidents.

The Kidney Foundation urges everyone to become familiar with the warning signs of kidney disease: burning or difficulty during urination; frequent urination, especially at night; passage of bloody urine; puffiness around the eyes, swelling of hands and feet and high blood pressure.

Take Off Pounds Sensibly

TOPS No. 213 Pass Christian met Oct. 6. Top loser for the second week was Milton Townsend. The following members received charms: Barbara Davis for staying at or below goal for 18 weeks; Linda Wyman for staying at or below goal for 12 weeks; Jennie Armatto for losing 20 pounds; Loraine Townsend for losing 10 pounds and Milton Townsend for losing 10 pounds.

The club invites anyone interested in weight control to come visit. Weigh-ins are between 5:30 and 6:30 p.m. The meeting is held every Tuesday at the Pass Christian Library on Hiern Avenue between 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. For more information, call Jeannie Livings at 452-9706 or Gayle Arnold at 467-7198.

EXCHANGITE—Carolyn Amacker has been named 'Exchangite of the Year' for 1986-1987 by the Hancock County Exchange Club. The first woman in the club, she has been chosen president-elect for the 1987-1988 year. A resident of Long Beach with her husband Tommy and children Lisa, Kelli and Spike, she is manager of City Finance Co. in Bay St. Louis which was recently cited for outstanding district performance. ELIZABETH CHARLENE WATFORD

Watford-Boyd

Mr. and Mrs. James F. Watford of Grand Bay, Ala. announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Charlene Watford, to Marvin Yon Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Boyd of Bay St. Louis.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Mobile Christian High School in Mobile, Ala. and Manatee Junior College in Bradenton, Fla. She was vice president of the National Honor Society and homecoming maid while in high school. Miss Watford attended Barbizon Modeling School in Tampa, Fla. and is employed with Altus Bank.

Mr. Boyd is a graduate of Bay Senior High School and received an associate degree from Pearl River Junior College. He is a staff sergeant and an aircraft fuel systems technician with the U. S. Air Force.

The couple will exchange vows October 17 in a 3 p.m. ceremony at the south terrace of Bellingrath Gardens, Theodore, Ala., with the Reverend Charles E. Brown officiating.

A United Way Agency

RSVP volunteers serve county's non-profit efforts

Editor's Note: Following is the thirteenth in a series of articles being presented by the Sea Coast Echo on agencies which are partially funded by the United Way of Hancock County. The local United Way is currently engaged in its 1987 fundraising drive. Lonnie Clayborn of Waveland is chairman of this year's drive. The goal is $65,000.

"Reach out and touch someone"—that slogan could easily apply to more than 350 retired men and women over 60 years of age who volunteer through the RSVP.

RSVP enlists, on a part-time basis, the time and enthusiasm of these older people and provides opportunities for volunteer service thru non-profit, private and public community organizations. More than 39 non-profit organizations in our community use Hancock County's 358 volunteers.

From a small beginning in 1973 RSVP has grown from 50 volunteers to over 350 and serves almost every non-profit agency in the county. With only 3 paid staff members these 358 dedicated volunteers served over 90,000 hours helping others.

RSVP volunteers are involved in many different areas of support and endeavors—one of the newest stations is the Bay Waveland School District summer nutrition program. Volunteers serve balanced meals to children under 18 years of age 5 days a week during the summer months. The Hancock County Food Pantry is manned exclusively by volunteers who distribute food in emergency situations. This service is sponsored by local churches.

Volunteers also helped the U.S. Naval Oceanographic Library by cataloging data to enable the Navy to open the Library when it was moved from Washington DC to the Hancock County Test Site.

There are volunteers who are helping adults to read and write as well as tutoring children who need to improve their skills.

Other areas where volunteers serve are in nursing homes, senior centers, offices, hospitals, and visiting in homes helping those that are unable to do for themselves.

The United Way is the Grantee for the Retired Senior Volunteer Program. Volunteers serve on the board and are helping with the annual drive.

For these reasons we have used the slogan that describes best what RSVP does—"Reach Out And Touch Someone"—because we are all better because of this program.

JAMIE AMANDA OTT

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ott of Bay St. Louis announce the birth of their first child, Jamie Amanda, September 11, 1987 at 11:07 p.m. at Hancock Medical Center in Bay St. Louis.

She weighed 8 pounds, 4 ounces. Mrs. Ott is the former Debbie Skelton. Maternal grandparents are Olga and Erskine Skelton of Bay St. Louis. Paternal grandparents are Elizabeth and Harold Ott of Waveland.

Retirement reception honors Father O'Brien

Reverend John O'Brien, pastor of St. Clare Church in Waveland, was honored at a reception given on the occasion of his recent retirement.

Father O'Brien has a long history with the parish of St. Clare. In 1982 he succeeded Father Costello, the founding pastor of St. Clare.

Father O'Brien remained at St. Clare until 1984 during which time he was responsible for building the parish plant of church, school and convent.

Father O'Brien returned in April of 1985 as pastor and remained until Sept. 30, 1987.

"The parish is grateful for this priest of over 41 years for his loving dedication to his people and his prayerful example. We wish Father O'Brien God's best health as he continues to serve in whatever ways he can," said a parish spokesman.

BEST WISHES—Mayor John Longo presents Reverend John O'Brien with a plaque from the city in gratitude for his services to the people of St. Clare in Waveland. Best wishes were extended to Father O'Brien on his retirement from the parish.

Health Fair viewed as preventive medicine

Diamondhead was recently the site for community health information when Hancock Medical Center and Diamondhead Business and Professional Men's Association co-sponsored the Diamondhead Health Fair.

Diane Bennett, RN, said "A health fair serves to inform the community through pre-testing and education. It is all a part of what is termed preventive medicine."

This year's health fair provided important answers to community questions. For example, why is it important to test for diabetes?

According to hospital educational sources, over eleven million Americans suffer from diabetes and more than two fifths of them don't know they have it.

If diabetes is overlooked, it can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, or blindness. Diabetes can easily be detected and treated. Some of the complications of diabetes may be prevented if caught early and treated properly.

Hancock Medical Center tested approximately 150 people for the disease.

Hancock Medical Center's cardiopulmonary representative, Nona Morlan, RRT, administered preliminary breathing tests.

Morlan said, "Cardiopulmonary testing values are calculated based on the individual's sex, age, and weight. Out of the 150 people tested about 10 percent were found to have abnormal values and most of these individuals were smokers."

The American Lung Association states that tobacco smoke, especially cigarette smoke, is the main cause of lung cancer. Lung cancer occurs most often in persons over 50 years old but can strike anyone. Lung cancer can even occur in people who have never smoked tobacco or worked with cancer causing substances.

NOBEL LAUREATE Dr. Marshall Nirenberg, who broke the genetic code, is shown here at the DNA Synthesizer. He appears in Program Four of The Health Century, airing over PBS Monday at 10 p.m.

Molecular biology and its impact on medicine are addressed in final program of 'The Health Century'

In the concluding hour of the four-part series, The Health Century, airing Monday at 10 p.m. over the Public Broadcasting Service, two dramatic disciplines in the vanguard of medical science are reviewed: molecular biology and genetics.

The program poses important questions for the researcher of the next Health Century. It introduces some of the most accomplished American molecular scientists of our era, including researchers whose work is increasingly making front page news.

The program recounts significant early work in Twentieth Century genetics, using historical still photographs and other archival material. Animation helps explain the workings of DNA, genes and chromosomes. Interviews with key molecular biologist explain benchmark moments of the last three decades.

Among those participating in the program are Nobel laureate James Watson, from Cold Spring Harbor Laboratories, who, along with Francis Crick, determined the structure of DNA. Marshall Nirenberg of the National Institutes of Health and colleague Maxine Singer tell their story of cracking the genetic code. Nirenberg received a Nobel Prize in 1968 for his discovery.

Paul Berg of Stanford University recounts how ethical considerations redirected the course of his research; he stopped work on a project for fear of creating a virus that could cause cancer.

Dr. Donald Fredrickson, former head of the NIH, describes his role in public policy concerns over DNA research in the 1970's, a time when popular fiction speculated as to what could go wrong if a research project got out of hand. Herbert Boyer, at the University of California at San Francisco, recounts his historic work in gene splicing with Stanley Cohen.

Dr. Philip Leder, Chairman of Harvard's Genetics Department, who worked at the National Institutes of Health during the genetic explosion of the 60's and 70's explains the importance of genetics in modern medicine.

The modern biotechnology revolution has been made possible by the development of sophisticated computers and machinery which enable scientists to realize their dreams. Featured in The Health Century's tour of the modern laboratory are Dr. Leroy Hood at the California Institute of Technology where historic work is being done in gene therapy with mice, and where sophisticated equipment to sequence human genes is being designed and built; Dr. Victor McKusick of Johns Hopkins who maps our genes; and Patrick Gage at a modern biotechnology laboratory at Hoffman-LaRoche in Nutley, New Jersey.

At the Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, Dr. Thomas Caskey and Arthur Beaudet explain how molecular biology has great applications in their clinical treatment of patients with genetic diseases, and how work in human gene therapy is progressing.

The Health Century is produced by The Blackwell Corporation, a leading independent supplier of programming for PBS. David Roland, executive vice president of Blackwell, is series producer. Program Four was written and produced by David Roland.

The Health Century is underwritten by these partners in the research enterprise: American Home Products Corporation, Bristol-Myers Company, Burroughs Wellcome Co., CIBA-GEIGY Corporation, Eli Lilly and Company, Hoffman-LaRoche Inc., Howard Hughes Medical Institute, Johnson & Johnson, Merck & Co., Inc., Pfizer Inc., Schering-Plough Foundation, SmithKline Beckman Corporation, Squibb Corporation, the Upjohn Company, and Warner Lambert Company.

Year's "Growing" Event
Presented by Field Day

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

Home vegetable gardeners and commercial vegetable growers take note!

The year's biggest vegetable growing event in Mississippi, The Annual Open House and Fall Vegetable Field Day at the Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station at Crystal Springs has been set for Thursday, October 15th.

This field day is the highlight of the year because it gives vegetable growers and gardeners the opportunity to see vegetables at their best. Nowhere else in the state and at no other time of the year is it possible to see so many different vegetables, both warm season and cool season vegetables, and so many different varieties growing in one location. Some of the vegetables growing at the Station are: collards, brussels sprouts, cauliflower, cabbage, mustard, turnip, lettuce, tomato, pepper, Chinese cabbage, cucumber, squash and beans.

For people involved in the growing of vegetables, whether commercially or just in the garden, this field day provides the opportunity to see new varieties as well as varieties recommended for Mississippi. Even some of the old varieties are there that may no longer be recommended. You can walk along, at your own pace, comparing one variety to the next or go back to recheck since there is no structured program.

Dr. Steve Windham, Dr. Pat Hegwood and the support staff of the Truck Crops Branch Station have been working for months in preparation for the field day. In addition to the vegetable plots, visitors will be able to tour the station and see the research plots for blueberries, muscadines, apples and peaches.

Activities are scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. on the 15th, but since there is no structured program, people can arrive anytime after 10 up to mid-afternoon and not miss anything. However, if the day is hot, the vegetables will look their best in the morning. After parking the vehicle, the first activity will be to register. Registrants immediately become eligible to win one of the door prizes, a box of fresh vegetables, that will be given away during the day. That's right, you don't have to wait all day to find out if you're one of the lucky ones.

The way to get the most out of the field day is to bring a pencil and pad and come prepared to walk. Every registrant will receive a copy of the field plan indicating the location of each of the vegetables along with the varieties, seed sources and planting dates. To assist you by answering any questions that you may have, there will be resource people from Mississippi State University stationed throughout the vegetable plots. These resource people are entomologists, plant pathologists and horticulturists.

This year, for the first time, there will be exhibitors of irrigation and spray equipment as well as garden tillers and other tools and equipment used in vegetable production.

One of the questions asked most frequently by those attending the field day in past years has been, "What's your secret fertilizer that makes the vegetables look so good?" The answer is simply that the reason the vegetables look so good is that they get the water they need when they need it and this has nothing to do with secret fertilizers. The vegetables receive 1 to 2 inches of water every week whether by rain or sprinkler irrigation. The plants are fertilized according to soil test recommendations.

The Truck Crops Station is relatively easy to locate. Crystal Springs is about 25 miles south of Jackson, just off of Interstate 55. The station is south of Crystal Springs on US Highway 51. Those of you traveling south from Jackson on I-55 should take exit 20, head east to US 51 and turn south and watch for the station sign. If traveling north on I-55, take exit 19 at Gallman and head north on US 51. The station entrance is on the east side of the road.

We look forward to seeing you at the field day!

Monday is Columbus Day

Whatever possessed those people?

By Joe Pilet
On Monday we celebrate Columbus Day.

Columbo was the family name and Domenico the given name of a wool weaver who sired five children of which Christopher was the first, born in Genoa in 1451.

His brother, Bartholomew, was the second born. These lads grew up with very little formal education, but they had keen minds and an avid interest in ships and sailing.

Christopher taught himself Latin because books on geography were written in that language.

He taught himself many other things that later led to his well earned title "Admiral of the Ocean Sea."

All of these things are recorded in Samuel Eliot Morison's Pulitzer prize winning biography of Christopher Columbus.

But ask yourself these questions: Who in his right mind would be so bold, so foolhardy, so venturesome as to set out in ships that were made of wood, food for worms, ships that had no engines, no motors; ships that depended on wind and strong men with skillful use of oars?

These ships had few creature comforts, but they were equipped with "fire boxes" on which to prepare their meals. (Fire Prevention Week, take note).

Santa Maria, the flag ship, had a crew of 40 men; the Nina was about 70 feet long with a crew of 26 men; and the Pinta's length was about 75 feet with a crew of 24.

Next question: What was the purpose of this planned voyage? Some say to prove that the world is round. (That thought can be discarded).

Some say that Christopher Columbus was a devout Christian and prayed frequently, that he felt God wanted him to find new land and new opportunities for his people.

Some say he wanted to set up a trade center where merchandise and produce from East and West might be exchanged.

Some say he wanted riches and recognition for himself and his family.

Other questions follow such as: What would prevail 90 men to risk their necks on such an outlandish undertaking? Gold? Personal problems? A yen for adventure? This was a "swim or sink" situation.

Some people are born dare-devils. They signed up. We know not why. It would take a master salesman to sell that bill of goods, but we know from Columbus' log they endured privations and encountered dangers and at time knew desperation and illness.

Another key question: Who would finance this great plan? Where was the security? But they went and they saw the light that led to the first landing! The moon was bright at 2 a.m. on October 12, 1492.

This discovery of an island Columbus named San Salvador reshaped our world and has been called the most important event in our history. Can the exact location of the landing be pinpointed? Never mind. Leave that question for National Geographic (See November 1986 "Our Search for the True Columbus Landfall").

Our interest is in proper recognition of a very important event. In the year 1892 President Benjamin Harrison called on the people of the United States to celebrate Columbus Day annually on Oct. 12. Since 1920 this date has been observed annually throughout these United States.

Dead at age 51, Columbus spent the last two years of his life in crippling arthritic pain. His remains were placed by his grandson in the Cathedral of Seville in Santo Domingo. And may God bless America and God bless Christopher Columbus, Admiral of the Ocean Sea.

Community Services Directory

Art Classes

Oil painting classes are offered at the Bay St. Louis Senior Citizens Center each Monday and Wednesday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Carl Baldenhofer, a Retired Senior Program volunteer, conducts the class. Interested seniors may secure further information by contacting the Hancock County Art Association, 255-3562 or the RSVP office, 467-9204.

Senior Citizen Jobs

Seniors Job Registry, Russell Youth Court Building, 126 Court St., Bay St. Louis offers placement services to employees and employers. The registry is a free community service provided by National Council of Senior Citizens Senior Aides Program funded by the Department of Labor through South Mississippi Planning and Development District. The registry attempts to place seniors 55-years-old or older in hourly, daily, weekly or monthly positions, according to Gertrude Sauer, coordinator.

Call 467-7945 for additional information. Office hours are 8 a.m. to noon Mondays through Fridays.

Thrift Store

Waveland Conference, St. Vincent de Paul Society operates a thrift store, Waveland Civic Center, Coleman Avenue, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesdays, Thursdays, Fridays & Saturdays. Proceeds benefit needy regardless of race or religion. 467-0703.

Adult Education

Adult Education classes are being offered at Gulfview Elementary School, Lakeshore; Charles B. Murphy Elementary School, Pearlinton; Hancock North Central School, Kiln; and City-County Library, Bay St. Louis. Classes are designed to prepare adults for the GED exam. Applicants may enroll at any time during the school year. For information contact David Kopf, adult education supervisor, 255-7191 or 255-7192.

Legal Line

Volunteer attorneys answer legal questions from the general public from 6 to 7 p.m. first Wednesdays at 1-874-4160 toll free. Call from pay telephones should be made collect. The service is sponsored by Harrison County Young Lawyers, South Mississippi Planning and Development District Area Agency on Aging and South Mississippi Legal Services Corporation.

Blood Pressure

Retired Senior Volunteer Program sponsors free blood pressure testing Tuesdays, 9:30-11:30 a.m., American Legion Post No. 77, Waveland; 10 a.m.-noon, Hancock General Hospital; 11 a.m.-noon, RSVP office, Senior Citizens Center, Old Spanish Trail, Bay St. Louis.

Money Management

The Consumer Money Management Center serves the public by providing free financial consultations as well as informational literature and seminars for employers, educational institutions and civic and professional groups.

Information and assistance from the center relates to various aspects of personal money management including budgeting, credit repayment, insurance, and investments.

The service is sponsored by Mississippi State University and Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. To set up an appointment call Hancock County Extension Office, 467-5456.

Agriculture Hotline

The Farm Mediation Office with the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce has a toll-free telephone hotline (1-800-247-3871). The office is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. to help farmers facing financial problems.

Alcoholics Anonymous

Alcoholics Anonymous conducts open discussion (OD), closed discussion (CD), closed study (CS) and open speaker (SP) meetings at noon and 8 p.m. seven days a week at various locations throughout Hancock, West Harrison and Pearl River counties.

Groups and their meeting locations include Bay-Waveland Group, Our Lady of The Gulf Catholic Church Parish Hall, South Beach Boulevard, Bay St. Louis; Mustard Seed Group, Christ Episcopal Church's Virginia Hall, South Beach Boulevard, Bay St. Louis; Camel, Back To Basics, and Caring Groups, The Rebels Club, 547 St. John St., Bay St. Louis.

Will $66 feed a family?

Thrifty food plan provides challenge

By Eva Ann Dorris
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

Planning, shopping for and buying enough food to serve a balanced diet to a family of four, even on a liberal budget, can be a challenge. But imagine trying to achieve the same goal with only $66.70 a week to spend.

That is the least amount the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) says a family of four (two adults and two elementary schoolchildren) can spend each week for food and get a balanced diet. This is also the basis for food stamp allotments to low-income families.

Some skeptics say it isn't enough, but the USDA says it can be done.

Barbara McLaurin, a human nutrition specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Service, said the USDA has menus and recipes to back up their food estimation costs.

"It is difficult, and the person that shops for and prepares the family meals must have some knowledge of what they are doing," McLaurin said.

"The menus for the thrifty food plan, the lowest of four food plans endorsed by USDA, call for more preparation time than higher cost meal plans and virtually eliminate the use of convenience foods," she said. "Everything is prepared from scratch."

According to McLaurin, former Secretary of Agriculture John Block was at one point skeptical of the thrifty food plan.

"He fed his family on the plan for one month," McLaurin said. "His conclusion was that it could be done, but there were certain foods he said they got tired of eating."

The food plans are at four cost levels—thrifty, low, moderate and liberal. Latest costs put the thrifty plan at $66.70, the low at $85.30, moderate at $107 and the liberal at $128.80.

The menus stay the same but food costs are computed each month by USDA's Human Nutrition Information Service and new cost estimates are released.

In computing the costs, USDA assumes all food is bought at the store. Costs do not include alcoholic beverages, pet food, soap, cigarettes, paper goods or other nonfood items.

As the cost of the plan increases, quantities of vegetables, fruits, meats, poultry and fish generally increase while quantities of grain products, dry beans, peas, nuts and eggs generally decrease.

Nelda Starks, an Extension nutrition education specialist, said the biggest weakness of the meal plan program is that, although menus and recipes are available as guidelines, they don't always get into the hands of the people who need them.

The Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) is an educational program conducted by the Extension Service that teaches people at or below the poverty line the basics of good nutrition.

"There is no educational component to the food stamp program," Starks said. "But EFNEP reaches some of the food stamp recipients with educational programs that help them plan nutritious meals for their families with a limited food budget."

The nutritionist added that because of funding, EFNEP is not available in every county and many people who need the program are not being reached.

Starks, who has used the thrifty meal plan to prove it can be done, said it takes work and there can be no extras on the shopping list.

"It can be done, but most low-income shoppers just don't get the educational materials they need to successfully carry out a balanced meal plan for their families," she said.

"Many families on the thrifty budget won't get nutritionally balanced meals for $66.70 a week," she added. "They just don't know how."

ETV Brief

SCIENCE SERIES

Philip Morrison, one of modern physics' most renowned practitioners and teachers, takes viewers on an entertaining personal journey through the inner workings of science in a new six-part series on ETV.

"The Ring of Truth" can be seen at 9 p.m., Tuesdays, beginning Oct. 20, on Mississippi ETV.

The series begins with Galileo's development of the telescope and winds up at the brink of today's knowledge in astrophysics and quantum mechanics. From glassmakers in Italy, cyclists racing through France, magicians in Boston and astronomers in Arizona to geologists on a drill ship in the Mediterranean, the series spans the globe as Morrison leads an intrepid journey through the inner workings of science.

Wide investment still offered by IRA's

By Rosemary S. Tigrett
Area Consumer
Management Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Consumers who are looking for an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) now have a wide range of investment opportunities.

The only areas that are off-limits in terms of IRA's are life insurance policies and collectibles such as art or antiques, etc. Municipal bonds also do not make wise IRA investments because they already enjoy tax-exempt status.

A list of ways to invest in an IRA follows:

1. Certificates of Deposit (CDs). An investor can set up an IRA through a bank, a savings and loan association or savings bank that offers fixed rate time deposits called certificates of deposit. (They are called share accounts or share certificates at credit unions.) CDs can be purchased to mature in a few months or several years. They pay whatever rate of interest the institution sets. These accounts are government insured and do not require investment or management fees.

Variable-rate CDs with fluctuating interest rates are also available from these institutions.

2. Annuities. An investor can contribute to an IRA through an insurance annuity. An annuity is a contract that provides a regular income. Generally, the person receives the income monthly with payments to continue for life or for a certain number of years.

The years dollars are contributed to the account are called the accumulation period. A varying amount contributed from year to year within certain limits is permitted during this period. These are called flexible payments.

Insurance companies offer both fixed and variable annuities.

Fixed Annuities: In a fixed annuity, the money paid is invested in bonds and mortgages with a fixed return. With this plan, the investor is guaranteed a minimum rate of return during the accumulation period. The investor never gets less, but can get more. During the payout phase, a fixed annuity guarantees a certain amount of money per month for life.

Variable Annuities. In variable annuities, the money generally is invested in common stock or other equities. The amount that will be available at retirement depends on the performance of the stocks and other equities into which the money has been invested.

Insurance companies vary in their charges for IRA annuities. In some cases, there may be an initial charge and an annual maintenance fee. In these so called front-load annuities, there usually is no contract withdrawal penalty.

3. Money Market Mutual Funds. You can set up an IRA through a money market fund that pools your money with others and invests in such instruments as U.S. government securities, bank CDs and commercial paper issued by corporations. The rate of return on these investments fluctuates daily.

4. Stock Mutual Funds. You can set up an IRA through a stock mutual fund that pools your money with others to invest in one of a variety of stock funds, growth stocks, blue chip stocks, energy stocks, etc. (You can buy and sell your own stocks through a self-directed IRA, but brokerage commissions are high on investments as small as $2,000).

IRA money can be withdrawn from a stock mutual fund without paying a fee. However, the amount that can be withdrawn depends upon the value of stock purchased by the fund.

There may be a start up fee or sales commission for buying shares in a stock mutual fund. There also may be an annual maintenance fee.

5. Bond Mutual Funds. An IRA can be invested in a bond mutual fund that pools the investor's money with others to buy various bonds. The type and quality of bonds are stated in the fund's prospectus. (Investors can purchase their own corporate bonds, but an investment of only $2,000 means the investor might have to pay an odd lot fee).

ANIMAL READY FOR BLESSING—Among those planning on having their animals blessed on Sunday, Oct. 18, are from left, Matt Gray, Phillip Causey, Bo Lander and Oris Ladner. The event will take place on the parking lot of St. Thomas Episcopal Church, Diamondhead at 5 p.m. with Father Meredith J. Spencer officiating.

St. Thomas animal blessing Oct. 18

St. Thomas Episcopal Church, Diamondhead, will host "A Blessing of the Animals" on Sunday, Oct. 18 at 5 p.m.

The service had its origin during the time of St. Francis of Assisi, known as the animal's special saint. The Rev. Meredith J. Spencer, vicar of St. Thomas, will conduct a short period of worship, after which all the attending animals will be blessed individually.

The church has held this function once before, in November of 1985, and found it to be popular with the community's pet lovers. Some 100 attended the event.

All pet owners and their pets are invited. The service will be held in the church parking lot; dog owners are asked to assemble at the south end of the lot, cat owners at the north. Farm animals will occupy the middle ground.

Chairman of the event is Sandra Robertson, DVM, of the Diamondhead Animal Hospital.

Henri Cartier-Bresson photographs to show New Orleans Museum

NEW ORLEANS—An exhibition of photographs by Henri Cartier-Bresson, hailed as "the man responsible for more memorable images than any other photographer in his time," will open Oct. 10 at the New Orleans Museum of Art.

Currently in the seventh year of its international tour, the exhibition has traveled to over 60 cities in North America, South America, Europe and Asia.

Henri Cartier-Bresson: Photographer includes 156 images personally selected by Cartier-Bresson as a statement of his 50 years in photography.

It is the first comprehensive review of his work in more than a decade.

The exhibition, made possible through a grant from American Express company, was organized by the International Center of Photography in New York where it opened in November, 1979.

Henri Cartier-Bresson was one of the first photographers to use the 35mm camera, which aided him in his quest to seize what he called "the decisive moment."

Always fascinated by the differences between people and cultures, Cartier-Bresson's work led him around the world. The photographs in this exhibition cover 23 countries.

Now 80 years of age, Cartier-Bresson is still the master of photography. He views his camera as a visual sketchbook. Simultaneously candid and instantaneous, his photographs reflect with acute sensitivity the seemingly ordinary moments in life.

Weekly State Crop Report

Corn crop yields record bushels

MISSISSIPPI STATE—State farmers who grow feed crops have harvested a record 80 bushels an acre of corn but their yields on grain sorghum were disappointing.

About 190,000 acres of corn were harvested, yielding 15 million bushels this year, according to Dr. Bob Williams, economist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. In 1986, 180,000 acres of corn were harvested, yielding 13 million bushels.

Corn farmers averaged 75 bushels per acre in 1986.

"This is the fourth consecutive year for corn production to increase in Mississippi," Williams said. "This year has been a real plus for us because of the high corn yields we had."

While grain sorghum farmers had an increase in yield per acre in 1987, the total number of bushels harvested dropped about 5 million. Grain sorghum farmers harvested about 9.4 million bushels this year. In 1986, they harvested 14.4 million bushels.

Farmers averaged about 65 bushels per acre on grain sorghum this year, up five bushels from last year.

The number of acres planted in grain sorghum significantly dropped this year because of limitations imposed by the 1985 farm bill. State farmers planted 145,000 acres in 1987; in 1986, they planted 240,000 acres.

"With a smaller crop planted, the value of our grain sorghum dropped," Williams said.

Despite the drop in value of grain sorghum, the value of the corn crop increased with crop size and the total value of all feed crops remained about the same as in 1986.

"With the yields we had this year and the prices we had, we can make some money," Williams said.

Feed crop farmers who receive deficiency payments were able to make some profit. Those who do not get deficiency payments and sell on the cash market did not fare well in making profit.

Williams said the record corn yield indicates the potential for corn farmers to do well in 1988.

In other agricultural news, scattered thundershowers last week have helped pastures and planting of winter grazing crops. Cotton harvesting in the state is in full swing.

Alimony means special tax rules

Divorced or separated persons who pay or receive alimony under a court agreement should know the tax rules that affect them, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Alimony may be deductible by the person paying it if certain requirements are met. If alimony is deductible by the payer, it is taxable to the recipient.

For payments under divorce or separation agreements made after 1984, or under pre-1985 agreements changed to specify that the new rules will apply, payments are treated as alimony if all the following requirements are met:

- 1) The payment is in cash;
- 2) The parties do not designate that the payment is not alimony;
- 3) If the parties are legally separated under a decree of divorce or separate maintenance, the parties are not members of the same household when the payment is made;
- 4) There is no liability to make any payment (in cash or property) after the death of the recipient spouse;
- 5) The payment is not treated as child support.

The payer can deduct alimony payments from gross income without itemizing deductions, the IRS says. The payer must include on his or her tax return the spouse's or former spouse's last name, if different from the payer's and social security number. Failure to report the number may result in a $50 penalty.

If the spouse or former spouse fails to supply the payer with his or her social security number, a penalty of $50 may be imposed on the spouse or former spouse.

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 changed the extent to which large alimony payments (i.e., payments over $15,000) made in the first 3 years can be deducted as alimony.

Free IRS Publication 504, "Tax Information for Divorced or Separated Individuals," explains the tax treatment of alimony in more detail. Taxpayers may order the publication by calling 1-800-424-FORM (3676) or the IRS "Forms Only" number listed in local telephone directories under U.S. Government.

Reed campaign headquarters located in Wheel Inn building

Margaret Hadden, Jack Reed for Governor campaign chairman, reports the Jack Reed Headquarters is open on US 90 in the Wheel Inn Restaurant building.

"Drop in for literature and any other information concerning the upcoming election. We welcome all volunteers," Hadden said.

"Remember, you can support and vote for Jack Reed, no matter your party affiliation—we are all Mississippians for Jack Reed," she added.

"Reservations are still available for the Sunday Oct. 18 Fund Raiser which will be a wonderful chance to spend an afternoon with Jack Reed," she pointed out.

For information call 467-7363 or 467-4111.

"In order to elect this well qualified candidate we need support and I look forward to having yours. Let's back Jack," Hadden added.

THE MASTER of political satire Mark Russell returns this season with four new comedy specials, including a collection of Russell's favorite songs from past programs, and the annual year-in-review program. Mark Russell Comedy Specials is produced by WNED Buffalo and airs Oct. 21, Nov. 4, Dec. 16 and 30, 9 p.m. on Mississippi ETV.

ETV Brief

COMEDY SERIES

Public television's new comedy anthology series, "Trying Times," premieres at 10 p.m., Monday, Oct. 19, on Mississippi ETV. The first presentation is "A Family Tree" by Mississippi Pulitzer Prize-winning author Beth Henley and starring Rosanna Arquette. "A Family Tree" finds a young woman (Arquette) trying to survive her first meeting with her future in-laws, a situation wrought with tension and comic angst. Shortly after formal introductions are made,

Kara finds a house full of troubled future relatives, including a just-fired father-in-law, an eccentric mother-in-law and a very strange soon-to-be brother-in-law.

The cast includes Hope Lange, John Stockwell and David Byrne in his first dramatic television role. Featured in other five productions in the series are Catherine Bach, Candice Bergen, Jeff Daniels, Teri Garr, Spalding Gray, Julie Hagerty, Jessica Harper, Swoosie Kurtz, Tim Matheson, Ron Silver and Steven Wright.

KC leader slates Columbus Day address

Columbus Day 1987 will be commemorated with a special address by Virgil C. Dechant, head of the one and a half million member Knights of Columbus fraternal order.

"According to an announcement by Elbert Cuevas, grand knight of Knights of Columbus Council number 7087 in Kiln, the address will be aired on radio station WXGR on Monday Oct. 12 at 9:15 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Cuevas said Dechant will examine how Columbus' attributes, his courage, fortitude and foresight, have become a recognized part of our national character.

In commenting on the program Cuevas said, "It was through courage and perseverance that Christopher Columbus expanded the horizons of his world. The Knights of Columbus today call on these same qualities in meeting the challenges and needs of our modern society. On Oct. 12, members of the Knights of Columbus throughout the western hemisphere will celebrate the memory of the man and his epic voyage."

Bike safety course set for Friday

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital's "Bring-A-Bike Day" safety course will be conducted by the Hancock County Child Development Center at the Hancock County Sheriff's Department on Oct. 16 to encourage safe riding behavior among children and raise money to fight childhood cancer.

"Bicycle accidents are a major problem with American children," Lora Pittman, director of the center said.

"According to the National Safety Council, there are an estimated 1,000 fatal accidents and 500,000 injuries a year involving bicycles. "Bring-A-Bike Day" aims at making children aware of bike safety at an early age, which we hope will save our children from harm.

Parents of children at the Child Development Center will be seeking pledges for St. Jude Hospital during this program. St. Jude is the leading center for the study of childhood cancer which, next to accidents, is the leading killer of children.

For further information, call Lora Pittman at 601-467-8050.

1987 Mississippi State Fair opens

The 128th annual edition of the Mississippi State Fair at the fairgrounds complex in Jackson runs through Sunday, Oct. 18.

"Since its inception, the Mississippi State Fair has continued to grow at a rapid pace. Each year crowds from, not just Mississippi, but neighboring states as well come to the fair. It's among Mississippi's top events," said Agriculture Commissioner Jim Buck Ross, chairman of the State Fair Commission, which sponsors the fair.

"We are pleased to announce several corporate sponsors for this year's fair. These sponsors enable us to bring the best of everything possible to fairgoers," said Billy Orr, manager of the fairgrounds complex and executive director of the Fair Commission.

Orr said the sponsors, some of whom participated in the 1986 fair, include the Mississippi Farm Bureau, the Hinds County Sheriff's Department, Budweiser, Newport, Sunflower, Bobby Gray Mazda, Pepsi, the Rankin County Bank, and Miss 103 Radio.

The Appaloosa Horse Show, various dairy shows, hog contests and livestock competitions highlight this year's fair," said Tommy Strickland, livestock manager.

Daily gate admission is $2 per person, 12 years or older from 12:30 p.m. until closing. For children 6 through 11, admission is $1. Children under five are admitted free. Parking is $1 per car.

From 10 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, admission to the fair is free.

On the fair's final day, Sunday, Oct. 18 fairgoers can ride unlimited rides for $7 from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. during Last Blast.

Midnight Madness on Friday, Oct. 16 offers fairgoers a chance to ride unlimited rides for $9. After 11 p.m. on Midnight Madness night, fairgoers can enter the fair for $1 admission. Parking is $1 per car.

Livestock events began Friday with the arrival of junior lambs, steer, swine, beef breeding cattle and senior swine. The first judging was for Saturday.

Arts and crafts and floral competitions and industrial exhibits are also among events at the state fair.

The R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Caravan will entertain fairgoers with a show depicting the history of tobacco and a tobacco exhibit daily in the R.J. Reynolds Theatre in front of the Trade Mart.

Clowns, Medals and Me Too will offer free face painting for children daily in the Children's Theatre, a new feature on the fairgrounds. The theatre will be housed in the Industrial Building. Other entertainment is planned for children.

Alabama brings its show to the Coliseum at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 14. Tickets are $17 and all seats are reserved. Restless Heart and Michael Johnson join Alabama.

Power Pull '87 featuring trucks and tractors doing amazing stunts offers fairgoers performances at 7:30 on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 16 and 17 and a 2:30 p.m. performance on Sunday, Oct. 18. General admission tickets are $10 and tickets for children under 12 are $6.

Fairgoers who purchase advance tickets to Coliseum attractions, receive free admission to the fair. Parking is $1 per car. Tickets are available at the Coliseum Box Office and the usual ticket outlets.

Free concerts are slated to feature Jerry Clower, Gene Watson and True Value Regional Talent Showdown, Keith Whitley, Sims Brothers Band, Jackie Thompson with Tony McGill and the Hour of the 50's Dancers, Leather and Lace, Nighshift, Gospel groups, the Bellamy Brothers, Zapp Band, Highway 101, Christy Rose, Air Force Bands and Tammy Wynette.

Magician Dick Frost, who'll perform daily, has something new this year. He will display his collection of handcuffs and leg irons used on such criminals as Carl Chessman, John Dillinger and Al Capone.
